Administration Leaders Act To Obtain Senate Vote on Money Bill by End of Week

JOHNSON SAYS EXPLOITATION TO BE HALTED

Oppression Of Small Business Will Be Prevented

Worcester, Mass., Jan. 25.—(AP)—General Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, tonight charged that 90 per cent of the complaints that small business concerns are or may be oppressed by larger ones came from establishments which said that "to survive they must exploit their workers."

Johnson said code authorities would prevent any such oppression.

The administrator spoke before a huge gathering in the Municipal auditorium at the annual banquet of the Worcester Chamber of Commerce.

"The line has been drawn at unjustifiable exploitation and we must continue to draw it," Johnson said. "This act must be executed in sympathy and common sense, but the very fundamental of its purpose is that a unit that cannot live except by exploitation shall no longer be permitted. Regional differences of living costs, the higher costs in larger cities, exceptional cases of honest hardship all these are recognized."

The other ten per cent of complaints, the administrator continued, came from the smaller business, the individual and other regulatory practices. These were being examined, he said, and true exploitation would be stopped. For this purpose, he added, the president had approved a plan, suggested by Senator Nye, with an amendment by Senator Norris, to set up a board which shall have summary powers to receive and inquire into any complaints.

"We are also setting up a division under Mr. Whitehead and Col. Montgomery to try to relieve the intolerable economic conditions which are the little fellow," Johnson said. "But aside from the conjectural complaints by and large small business has benefited by increased price, by protection against chains and monopolistic price practices, by every device which we could invent and apply."

Concerning the six-month-old organization, Johnson said "square pegs had been found in round holes" and experience in certain instances had shown errors, but "we have never tried to hide, or gloss over, or offer an excuse for a blunder."

"I do not mean to boast of blunders," he continued, "but I do think that the president's policy of doing whatever government has to do in the absolute open and without any excuse of political subterfuge intended to fool at least some of the people some of the time should be—and I think it is—the most confidence-inspiring policy of recent times."

BREMER FAMILY HAS RECEIVED ANOTHER NOTE

Immediate Payment Of Ransom Is Demanded

St. Paul, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Another anonymous note, written perhaps by the kidnap gang holding Edward G. Bremer, wealthy St. Paul president and owner of a bank, for $200,000 ransom, was tossed into the grabbag of meager clues in the case today.

It was mailed in St. Paul and addressed to an unnamed man described as a friend of the missing man and of his father, Adolph Bremer. It was reported the note, written in pencil and not signed by the captive president and owner of the Commercial State bank, urged immediate payment of the ransom.

Federal department of justice investigators, to whom the message was turned over, were unsure whether it was the work of a crank or came from the gang. They planned to compare its penmanship with that of other notes received since Bremer was abducted Jan. 17.

Two women who said they saw the abduction Jan. 17 gave information that may lead to the lair of the kidnapers.

One said she saw a struggle in the Bremer car after he had taken his young daughter to school, while the other was reported to have given the license number of the car in which he was carried away.

It was not announced why the women kept silent for more than a week.

There was considerable speculation as to why federal investigators became more active in seeking the fate of abductors who have demanded $200,000 ransom, which is now awaiting them. Some thought it had been decided that Bremer had met a fatal end, leaving capture of his kidnapers the main object to be attained.

As the eighth day passed without the return of Bremer, letter carriers in the twin cities were ordered to report any incident they thought might have a bearing on the crime.

St. Paul police continued inactive in the case at the request of the family.

Chicago, city police and federal authorities, hunted Charles "Doc" Wagon, Connors and another suspect for questioning in the Bremer case.

Connors, a former Minnesota convict, was indicted with Roger Touhy and four others for the kidnaping of John Factor. Touhy and three associates are being tried in connection with the Factor case.

ADMINISTRATION PLANS TO CLOSE REVENUE 'GAPS'

Equal Distribution Of Tax Burden Is Proposed

By Cecil B. Dickson

Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, Jan. 25.—(AP)—A tax bill drawn to meet administration requests for a closing of revenue gaps, a more equal distribution of the tax burden and to produce $200,000,000 more revenue annually, reached completion today in the house ways and means committee.

It is designed to tighten the income tax through changes in administrative provisions, but as this far, approved it also alters the income and losses provisions, subjects personal holding companies to heavy levies and continues consolidated corporate returns with an increased penalty tax.

Hold Conference

Following a conference with Secretary Morgenthau to obtain the final views of the treasury, the committee yielded to the request of the department had to drop its plan to deduct depreciation and depletion allowances to corporations.

By late afternoon $85,000,000 of estimated revenue was dropped from the bill. However, various minor administrative changes recommended by the treasury were adopted, which it was estimated, would round out a $200,000,000 measure.

Chairman Doughton (D. N. C.) announced the bill probably would be formally reported to the house Wednesday. However, there are several major items yet to be decided upon. Doughton said all action thus far was (Continued on Page Seven)

C. W. A. CRAFT CHARGES TO BE INVESTIGATED

Complaints Reported From All But Three States

Washington, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Complaints of graft in the civil works organization, coming from all but three states, tonight were under the scrutiny of a corps of public works administration investigators.

The division of investigation of the public works organization was requested by the civil works administration to sift out the 150 charges of graft and other irregularities that had come either to the interior department or to the white house and had been turned over to Secretary Ickes.

The complaints involved charges of unjust discrimination in the selection of civil workers, but there also existed a scattering of charges of padded payrolls, falsification of expense accounts and job selling.

Can Be Prosecuted

Legal experts of the government said laws already existed for prosecution of all the complaints except under a statute relating to that.

The New England states of New Hampshire, Vermont and Maine were reported to be the only ones from which graft complaints had not been received.

Of these 150 complaints, it was disclosed, not more than 15 had been of the major projects, but the remainder were of minor projects, which would be investigated, he said.

It was reported the president planned to send a message to congress tomorrow recommending an appropriation of $350,000,000 to continue the civil works to May 1.

This decision was made despite clamor for some of congressional quarters and elsewhere for an indefinite continuation.

SAMUEL INSULL'S NEXT REFUGE MAY BE ON HIGH SEAS

Greek Government Determined Not to Issue Passport Officials Claim

By Priscilla Ring

Associated Press Foreign Staff

Athens, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Speculation about Samuel Insull's next refuge included the conjecture today that the 64-year-old former Utilities operator may have to spend his remaining years on the ocean as an unwanted man without a country.

Some, in pointing to this possibility, declared the Greek government is firm in its determination not to issue a Greek passport to him and spoke of a likely difficulty in obtaining a visa for a laissez-passer—permission to leave the country.

No other nation has offered him haven now that the state council and the minister of the interior have agreed that Insull, who is wanted in Illinois for trial in connection with the collapse of the Insull Utilities, will be given no further extension of his residence permit.

Interior Ministry attaches said they did not expect him to have his void American passport. No foreign embassy here has prepared to visa the laissez-passer—without it Insull could not enter another country. Nor was it expected that he would be surrendered to American authorities, who twice have vainly sought his extradition.

Assembly Unable to Muster Enough Votes to Pass Liquor Bill; Recess Until Tuesday

By Milburn Akers

Associated Press Staff Writer

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Unable to muster the 102 house votes necessary for approval of the conference committee report on the re-written liquor control bill, the general assembly tonight recessed until next Tuesday.

After hours devoted to the roll call, during which recesses were taken in order to permit time for "missionary" work among members, the roll call finally reached 95 affirmative votes and 28 negative.

Beyond that the administration forces were unable to go. Convicted, finally, that the remaining six votes needed could not be obtained, administration spokesmen adjourned the house until next Tuesday with the roll call incomplete. When the house reassembles the first order of business will be continuation of the same roll call.

Committee Report

The house began consideration of the committee report, which has already received senatorial approval this morning, four hours and ten minutes were devoted to debate. Calling of the roll was commenced at 2:10 p. m. At 3:45 p. m. the vote stood 88 to 39 when administration leaders announced a recess would be taken for one hour.

The measure had been subjected to a merciless flaying from the Republican side and an equally ardent defense from the Democratic side.

While the house was in recess various members, who either had refrained from voting or had voted in the negative, were called into conference with various political leaders. The one hour recess soon lengthened into two and then into three. Finally at 6:15 p. m. Speaker Arthur Roe called the house into session.

Immediately Representative Sol Roderick, Chicago Republican, who had voted for the committee report, asked permission to speak. He said he had assurances that the 50-cent tax on industrial alcohol would be removed by a special bill which would receive administration support.

He asked confirmation of the compromise from Thomas S. Barrett, Rock Island Democratic floor leader. Barrett and the speaker both said that Governor Horner and various senate leaders had assured them that they would support a measure removing the tax on industrial alcohol.

LeRoy Green, Rockford Republican who was one of the leaders in the fight against the bill, by the minority, immediately replied.

"Assurances from the governor and from the speaker mean nothing to us. We must have assurances from Mr. Nash and the Democratic party. Not the governor and the speaker."

BRAZEN TACTICS OF RACKETEERS ARE DESCRIBED

Chicago, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Tradesmen whose businesses already have been forced from legitimate independence into bits of Chicago's vast colonies of industrial organization followed one another to the witness stand today to describe brazen tactics of racketeering by which they said racketeers ruled.

Piece by piece the state began fitting together through witnesses, who State Attorney Thomas J. Glavin, said, had lost their fear and were willing to talk, the component parts of the big puzzle that is the city's racketeering system.

The story of the cleaners' and dyers' warfare, fraught with window smashing and bombings, above which loomed the figure of James E. Gorman, president of the Retail Cleaners and Dyers Union, was told. Gorman is one of the 18 defendants.

Testimony that tradesmen were forced to join this and other unions, and that an arbitration contract was forced upon them and that strikes were called and lost, and that the small independent operator protested against his lot, was introduced.

The trial at which these salient facts were brought to light involved union leaders, gangsters and others, among them a university lecturer and a prominent attorney.

He said he had lost their fear and were willing to talk, the component parts of the big puzzle that is the city's racketeering system.

Farm Administration Has Changed Plans; Will Hold Conference With Packers

Washington, Jan. 25.—(AP)—The farm administration about-faced today after having informed meat packers of suspension of negotiations on a marketing agreement for the industry, and announced a new conference with representatives of packing interests.

In a letter to the Institute of American Meat Packers Secretary Wallace inferred that he considered it useless to continue work on an agreement proposed by the institute because it was not drawn to achieve the administration's principal goal—increasing the income of farmers.

He termed any marketing agreement for the packing industry a "temporary" measure at best and asserted its accomplishments in increasing producer's prices through eliminating dual activities and excessive competition would not be as great as had been believed.

The fundamentals in determining livestock prices are the level of payrolls and the supply coming to market, Wallace said, adding the administration was concentrating its efforts on reducing the supply rather than framing marketing agreements.

One official of the administration termed the agreement proposed by the institute "a blank check offered for the secretary to sign," and asserted it offered too wide a latitude in the powers granted to meat packers to operate under government sanction.

MILLIONS FOR WAR VETERANS BEING URGED

Edward A. Hayes Is Witness Before The Committee

Washington, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Additional millions in appropriations for war veterans were urged before a Senate appropriations subcommittee today, but administration opposition to new legislation was apparent in the questioning of witnesses by the demagogue.

There appeared to be better chance for a recommendation by the subcommittee to liberalize the economy provisions of the House independent offices bill on the federal pay cut and army and navy automatic promotion sections.

Hayes Speaks

Senator Reed (R-Ia.) proposed his amendment embracing the American Legion's four-point veterans program. Edward A. Hayes, Legion Commander spoke in its behalf.

Reed said President Roosevelt had conceded two of the Legion's four proposals in regulations promulgated a week ago and involving an additional outlay of $21,000,000 but he thought these and the two other points should be enacted into law to escape what he termed "scandalous" rulings by some veterans' administration boards of review.

Chairman Glass had told news-papers that the administration would go no farther than the new regulations. Furthermore, Senators Byrnes (D-SC) and Russell (D-GA) indicated by their questioning of Hayes and Reed that they were in an administration of the law could be corrected by boards of review, the membership of which included a majority of former service men.

Reed, however, insisted the boards could not do the job properly.

He estimated the two points not covered in the recent regulations, $15 monthly pensions for all World (Continued on Page Seven)

Two Prominent Frenchmen In Bloodless Duel

Paris, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Two prominent Frenchmen sought "satisfaction by arms" today in a huge football stadium, fired four small and ineffectual bullets at each other and stalked away, still angered by a dispute over the Bayonne Pawnshop scandal.

Deputy Andre Hesse and John Beineix, a lawyer and editor, faced each other at 22 yards in the Parc Des Princes within the shadow of Saint Paul's.

Both wore black, but eschewed the top hats prescribed by tradition in favor of derbies which they tipped before the encounter. Thirty seconds, doctors, and friends were present at the duel, which occurred before 20,000 empty seats.

Uninvited newspapermen and photographers scaled the walls of the stadium, on the outskirts of Paris, and watched from a distance, shivering like the others, in a raw morning wind.

Hesse first escaped a bullet wound in the right shoulder when Beineix fired the fourth and last shot in the fight over the editor's article criticizing Hesse for acting as a lawyer for the late Serge Stavisky, founder of the Bayonne Municipal Pawnshop, which collapsed with a loss of $40,000,000 to investors.

Duelling is unlawful in France but neither the police nor the courts are likely to act. It is customary to ignore such encounters unless they result in deaths.

Jean Joseph Renaud, one of the most famous swordsmen in France, who has the reputation of having defeated more duels than any other Frenchman and of having fought a score himself, was the director.

GERMANY WILL MAKE PAYMENTS

By Tom Wilhelm

Associated Press Foreign Staff

Berlin, Jan. 25.—(AP)—The possibility that Germany may increase the amount of interest and amortization payments she permits to be transferred abroad was indicated today during a meeting of foreign creditors' representatives and Reichsbank and government officials.

American and British bankers joined in opposing a recent reduction from 50 to 30 per cent in foreign payments, and efforts were started to induce the United States and England to accept additional German exports in return for a promise to allow full payments to be made.

The foreign creditors' agents were told that Germany anticipates 900,000,000 marks in revenue from exports, shipping, and services in 1934 with which to pay the 1,213,000,000 marks needed, according to estimates, to meet amortization and interest charges on foreign debts.

Four Notorious Bandits are Taken Without Shot Being Fired; Loot is Recovered

POLICEMEN ARE WITNESSES AT KIDNAP TRIAL

Tucson, Ariz., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Falling into a police trap, the asserted chief and three members of the notorious John Dillinger gang of Chicago were seized in dramatic fashion by Tucson officers today.

Found at different parts in the city, Charles Makley, 50, Russell Clark, 39, and Harry Pierpont, 31, were taken almost simultaneously in a bloodless coup, but were landed behind bars only after dexterous attempts had been made by two of them to wield pistols.

A few hours later John Dillinger, master of the gang that is wanted for murder, an array of midwestern bank robberies, an escape from the Indiana state prison and a jail delivery in Ohio, stepped into the police trap and, although armed, was taken without a fight.

Arrest Women

Arrested with Makley, Clark and Pierpont were two women. One gave her name as Hazel Long. The other first said she was Mrs. Pierpont, but later was identified by police as Mary Kinder. The officers said they believed the Kinder woman was wanted in Indiana on a murder charge.

A woman also accompanied Dillinger and both were taken immediately to police headquarters.

More than $10,000 in cash, four machine guns and other weapons were seized by the raiders.

Makley, Clark, and Pierpont had been sought on murder and robbery charges since they and seven other men were arrested in the slaying of the Michigan City, Ind., penitentiary last Sept. 26.

All are wanted on first degree murder charges at Lima, O. for the slaying of Sheriff Jess Sarber to effect delivery of Dillinger from jail.

Pierpont has been named as the "Trigger Man" in the slaying of Sheriff Sarber at Lima and identified as a participant in the $74,000 robbery of the Greenleaf, Ind., National Bank, one of several midwestern robberies attributed to the gang.

Clark was taken in an apartment building with a woman who later was released. Makley was seized in a downtown business establishment, and Pierpont together with Miss Kinder were picked up in a tourist camp while they were packing their motor car as if preparing to leave.

Pierpont, seemingly mild-mannered, went along willingly to the police station, where his handcuffs were removed and he was ordered to sit down. Instead, police said, he whipped out two pistols. Officers leaped upon him, they said, and disarmed him before he could pull a trigger.

CLAIMS CONVICTS WERE FORCED TO EAT COLD FOOD

New York, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Fourteen hundred inmates of Welfare Island prison were forced to eat scanty and cold food, Commissioner Austin H. MacCormick disclosed today, while the other 200 cooked steaks and chops over blazing bonfires from the prison kitchen.

The new commissioner, driving ahead with his investigation that started with a surprise raid on the penitentiary, ordered steam tables built quickly so that all the prisoners could enjoy as nourishing food as the gang overlords who he said had been running the prison.

He stopped virtually all communication with the island, held the prison "in favorites" in solitary confinement, placed drug addicts in the hospital, and kept up his cell by cell search that netted additional narcotics and weapons.

District Attorney William C. Dodge said he would make an independent inquiry into prison conditions. U. S. Attorney Martin Conboy conferred with Frank L. Igoe, supervising federal narcotic agent, to determine whether the federal government could take action on the discovery of quantities of drugs in yesterday's raid.

Sixty-eight associates of Jole Rao, described as the gang czar of the prison, were segregated in cells with their leader, as were the subordinates of Eddie Cleary, head of another prison faction.

These men, MacCormick said, had enjoyed the run of the island, kept carrier pigeons, and lived comfortably in the prison hospital. An investigation was started to ascertain whether these gangs had acted as agents for the sale of narcotics to other inmates, and whether the pigeons were used to bring the drugs onto the island.

DEPUTY CORONER DEMANDS FEDERAL AGENTS' PISTOLS

Chicago, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Chief Deputy Coroner Stephen Kalanowski today demanded guns and fingerprints of two federal agents who were at the apartment of William (Three Fingers Jack) White's apartment a few hours before he was shot to death Tuesday night.

Insisting he was casting no reflections on the agents, Oliver Kempster and James Hartney, Kalanowski said he "simply wanted to check every angle."

The guns, he said, will be sent to the Northwestern University crime laboratory for comparison with bullets found in the White apartment, and the fingerprints will be checked with those on glasses from which White and two visitors drank for an hour before he was shot in the neck.

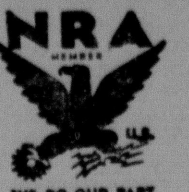

Kalanowski made his demand upon Melvin Purvis, local chief of the federal bureau of investigation.

The state's attorney's office conducted a secret investigation, and the inquest was continued until Feb. 2 after testimony was taken from the wife, from Miss Diane Anderson, friend of both Kempster and Mrs. White, and from Detective Chief Harry Wilson of Oak Park.

Kalanowski said he was mystified over the reported efforts of Kempster and Hartney to hide three snubnosed revolvers under a mattress when Sgt. Michael Fleming's squad took them into custody in their room.

SENT TO PRISON

Carbondale, Ill., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Claude (Red) Bonner, 30, today was sentenced to 25 years in the penitentiary by a circuit court jury which convicted him on a statutory charge involving a 9 year old girl. Bonner is married.

Washington, Jan. 25.—(P)—Administration leaders tonight acted to obtain a senate vote on the Roosevelt monetary bill by the end of the week after a day of inconclusive debate which developed a spirited argument over the constitutionality of giving the chief executive the congressional prerogative of revaluing the dollar.

Senator Robinson, the Democratic floor leader, arranged to have the senate meet an hour earlier than usual tomorrow and held out the prospect of a Saturday holiday if a vote can be taken before adjournment. If not, he said in answer to a question by Senator McNary, the Republican leader, the senate will meet on Saturday.

The administration has given strong indication that it wants the measure passed at the earliest possible date so that it may put the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund it would create to work defending the foreign value of the dollar.

Many speeches still were to be made that a vote tomorrow appeared probable. Senator Reed (R. Penna.) announced he would oppose the measure and Senator Wheeler (D. Mont.) is planning an effort to obtain a vote on his proposal for huge government purchases of silver by offering it as an amendment.

Senator Borah (R. Idaho) announced, however, he had abandoned an intention of seeking to attach an amendment providing that excess gold resulting from devaluation of the dollar be made the basis for additional issues of currency. There were too many votes against it, he said.

Senator Austin (R. Vt.) raised the issue of the constitutionality of giving the president power to revalue the dollar with an assertion that a power of such importance could be exercised only by congress.

"I contend that minor powers may be delegates to another agency to be carried out," said Austin. "There are numerous instances of this. But I think that this particular power is a power that has been held by the courts to be of the highest magnitude."

"The courts have held over and over," responded Robinson, "pounding his desk, 'that congress can choose an agent, fix the rules of its procedure and when it has done so it is a valid delegation of authority.'"

Borah reminded Austin that congress in the past had delegated the taxing power to other agencies, in the flexible provisions of the tariff law, in the interstate commerce commission's authority over railroad rates and in many other instances.

Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, a leader among the conservative Republicans, said he agreed with Robinson that by furnishing an agency with a "rule of action" congress can authorize it to exercise otherwise legislative powers. This was true, he said in the case of the interstate commerce commission, and the flexible tariff law, but he said he was not prepared to agree that the power is delegated with no rule of action prescribed.

Robinson disagreed and asserted that the bill laid down a rule of action clear as in the instances mentioned.

Austin addressed himself particularly to this phase of the bill, setting over and over the authority in question was too great to be given to any one to exercise, much less to a single individual.

SAMUEL INSULL'S NEXT REFUGE MAY BE ON HIGH SEAS

Greek Government Determined Not to Issue Passport Officials Claim

By Priscilla Ring
Associated Press Foreign Staff
Athens, Jan. 25.—(P)—Speculation about Samuel Insull's next refuge when he is deported a week hence in 64-year-old former Utilities operator may have to spend his remaining years on the ocean as an unwanted man without a country.

Some, in pointing to this possibility, declared the Greek government is firm in its determination not to issue a Greek passport to him and spoke of a likelihood of obtaining a visa for a laissez-passer—permission to leave the country.

No other nation has offered him haven, now that the state council and the Minister of the Interior have agreed that Insull, who is wanted in Illinois for a charge of obtaining the collapse of the Insull Utilities, will be given no further extension of his residence permit.

Interior Ministry attaches said they did not expect him to use his void American passport. No foreign consulate here has prepared to visa the laissez-passer, without it Insull could not enter another country. Nor was it expected that he would be surrendered to American authorities, who twice have vainly sought his extradition.

BREMER FAMILY HAS RECEIVED ANOTHER NOTE

Immediate Payment Of Ransom Is Demanded

St. Paul, Jan. 25.—(P)—Another anonymous note, written perhaps by the kidnap gang holding Edward G. Bremer, wealthy St. Paul president and owner of a bank for $200,000, was tossed into the grasp of meager clues in the case today.

It was mailed in St. Paul and addressed to an unnamed man described as a friend of the missing man and of his father, Adolph Bremer. It was reported the note, written in pencil and not signed by the captive president and owner of the Commercial State bank, urged immediate payment of the ransom.

Federal department of justice investigators, to whom the missive was turned over, were unsure whether it was the work of a crank or came from the gang. They planned to compare its penmanship with that of other notes received since Bremer was abducted Jan. 17.

Two women who said they saw the abduction Jan. 17 gave information that may lead to the lair of the kidnapers.

One said she saw a struggle in the Bremer car after he had taken his young daughter to school, while the other was reported to have given the license number of the car in which he was carried away.

It was not announced why the women kept silent for more than a week.

There was considerable speculation as to why federal investigators became more active in seeking the gang of abductors who have demanded $200,000 ransom, which is now awaiting them. Some thought it had been decided that Bremer had met a fatal end, leaving capture of his kidnapers the main object to be attained.

As the eighth day passed without the return of Bremer, letter carriers in the twin cities were ordered to report any incident they thought might have a bearing on the crime.

St. Paul police continued inactive in the case at the request of the family.

In Chicago, city police and federal authorities hunted Charles "Doc" Wagon, Connors and another suspect for questioning in the Bremer case.

Connors, a former Minnesota convict, was indicted with Roger Touhy and Edward J. Connelley, another alleged John Factor, Touhy and three associates are being tried in connection with the Factor case.

C. W. A. GRAFT CHARGES TO BE INVESTIGATED

Complaints Reported From All But Three States

Washington, Jan. 25.—(P)—Complaints of graft in the civil works organization, coming from all but three states, tonight were under the scrutiny of a corps of public works administration investigators.

The division of investigation of the public works organization was requested by the civil works administration to sift out the 150 charges of graft and other irregularities that had come either to the interior department or to the white house and had been turned over to Secretary Ickes.

The complaints involved charges of unjust discrimination in the selection of civil workers, but there also existed a scattering of charges of padded payrolls, falsification of expense accounts and job selling.

Can Be Prosecuted

Legal experts of the government said laws already existed for prosecution of all the complaints except unjust discrimination and that it was possible further study would uncover a statute relating to that.

The New England states of New Hampshire, Vermont and Maine were reported to be the only ones from which graft complaints had not been received.

Of these 150 complaints, it was disclosed, not more than 15 had been turned over for investigation by the department of justice. Assistant Attorney General Joseph B. Keenan said there were not more than three in his office.

Secretary Ickes said that it was not planned to put investigators on each of the major projects unless there was specific reason.

"Where there is a reason for CWA projects to believe there is skull-duggery or tips of something amiss, we will investigate," he said.

It was reported the president planned to send a message to congress tomorrow recommending an appropriation of $350,000,000 to continue the civil works to May 1.

This decision was made despite clamor for some of congressional quarters and elsewhere for an indefinite continuation.

FARM ADMINISTRATION HAS CHANGED PLANS; WILL HOLD CONFERENCE WITH PACKERS

Washington, Jan. 25.—(P)—The farm administration has informed meat packers of suspension of negotiations on a marketing agreement for the industry, and announced a new conference with representatives of packing interests.

In a letter to the Institute of American Meat Packers Secretary Wallace Woods, president of the institute, it was stated that the administration was proceeding slowly in its investigation.

"It is very easy to allow your indignation to run away with you prematurely," Wallace remarked.

He termed any marketing agreement for the packing industry a "temporary" measure at best and asserted its accomplishments in increasing producer's prices through eliminating dual activities and excessive competition would not be as great as had been believed.

The fundamentals in determining livestock prices are the level of payrolls and the supply coming to market, Wallace said, adding the administration was concentrating its efforts on reducing the supply rather than framing marketing agreements.

One official of the administration termed the agreement proposed by the institute "a blank check offered for the secretary to sign," and asserted it offered too wide a latitude in the powers granted to meat packers to operate under government sanction.

Wallace said there were a "number of things to be ironed out" at the Monday meeting, and remarked that "no matter how often we quarrel with the packers we are always willing to talk things over."

The administration has felt that many packers bids on livestock processed for the government were excessive, but Wallace said sufficient evidence on processing costs had not been obtained to justify any formal action on the problem.

Through "friendly packers" this evidence is being obtained, he said, and intimated that the administration was proceeding slowly in its investigation.

Assembly Unable to Muster Enough Votes to Pass Liquor Bill; Recess Until Tuesday

By Milburn Akers
Associated Press Staff Writer
Springfield, Ill., Jan. 25.—(P)—Unable to muster the 102 house votes necessary for approval of the conference committee's report on the re-written liquor control bill, the general assembly tonight recessed until next Tuesday.

After hours devoted to the roll call, during which recesses were taken in order to permit time for "missionary" work among members, the roll call finally reached 96 affirmative votes and 38 negative.

Beyond that the administration forces were unable to go. Convinced, finally, that the remaining six votes needed could not be obtained, administration spokesmen adjourned the house until next Tuesday with the roll call incomplete. When the house reassembles the first order of business will be a continuation of the same roll call.

The house began consideration of the committee report, which already received senatorial approval this morning, four hours and ten minutes were devoted to debate. Calling of the roll was commenced at 2:10 p. m. At 3:45 p. m. the vote stood 88 to 39 when administration leaders announced a recess would be taken for one hour.

ADMINISTRATION PLANS TO CLOSE REVENUE 'GAPS'

Equal Distribution Of Tax Burden Is Proposed

By Cecil B. Dickson
Associated Press Staff Writer
Washington, Jan. 25.—(P)—A tax bill drawn to meet administration requests for a closing of revenue gaps, a more equal distribution of the tax burden and to produce $200,000,000 more revenue annually neared completion today in the house ways and means committee.

It is designed to tighten the income tax law through changes in administrative provisions, but as thus far approved it also alters the income and losses provisions, subjects personal holding companies to heavy levies and continues consolidated corporate returns with an increased penalty tax.

Hold Conference

Following a conference with Secretary Morgenthau to obtain the final views of the treasury, the committee yielded to the request of the department had to drop its plan to deduct depreciation and depletion allowances to corporations.

By this action about $85,000,000 of estimated revenue was dropped from the bill. However, various minor administrative changes recommended by the treasury were adopted, which, it was estimated, would round out a $200,000,000 measure.

Chairman Doughton (D. N. C.) announced the bill probably would be formally reported to the house Wednesday. However, there are several major items yet to be decided upon. Doughton said all action thus far was (Continued on Page Seven)

Tradesmen Testify At Trial Of Eighteen Defendants

Chicago, Jan. 25.—(P)—Tradesmen whose businesses allegedly have been forced from legitimate independence into bits of Chicago's vast octopus of industrial organization followed one another to the witness stand today to describe brazen tactics of terrorism by which they said racketeers ruled.

Piece by piece the state began fitting together the picture of racketeering today through witnesses, who State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney said had lost their fear and were willing to talk, the component parts of the jig saw puzzle that is the city's racketeering system.

The story of the cleaners' and dyers' warfare, fraught with window smashing and bombings, above which loomed the figure of James E. Gorman, president of the Retail Cleaners' and Dyers' Union, was told. Gorman is one of the 18 defendants.

Testimony that tradesmen were forced to join this and other unions, and that an arbitration contract was forced upon them and that strikes were called almost at will when the small independent operator protested against his lot, was introduced.

The trial at which these salient facts were brought to light involved union leaders, gangsters and others among them a university lecturer and a prominent attorney. They were charged with conspiracy in attempting to dominate fraudulently the cleaning and dyeing, linen supply, carbonated beverage and laundry industries.

MILLIONS FOR WAR VETERANS BEING URGED

Edward A. Hayes Is Witness Before The Committee

Washington, Jan. 25.—(P)—Additional millions in appropriations for War Veterans were urged before a Senate appropriations subcommittee today, but administration opposition to new legislation was apparent in the questioning of witnesses by the democrats.

There appeared to be better chance for a recommendation by the subcommittee to liberalize the economy provisions of the House independent offices bill on the federal pay cut and army and navy automatic promotion sections.

Hayes Speaks

Senator Reed (R-Pa.) proposed his amendment embracing the American Legion's four-point veterans program. Edward A. Hayes, Legion Commander, spoke in its behalf.

Reed said President Roosevelt had conceded two of the Legion's four proposals in regulations promulgated a week ago and involving an additional outlay of $21,000,000 but he thought these and the two other points should be enacted into law to escape what he termed "scandalous" rulings by some veterans' administration boards of review.

Chairman Glass had told newspapermen that the administration would go no farther than the new regulations. Senator Byrnes (D-SC) and Russell (D-GA) indicated by their questioning of Hayes and Reed that any inequalities in administration of the law could be corrected by boards of review, the membership of which included a majority of former service men.

Reed, however, insisted the boards could not do the job properly.

He estimated the two points not covered in the recent regulations—a $15 monthly pensions for all World (Continued on Page Seven)

Men Meet in Football Stadium, Fire Four Shots Wildly And Retire

By John Evans
Associated Press Foreign Staff
Paris, Jan. 25.—(P)—Two prominent Frenchmen sought "satisfaction by arms" today in a huge football stadium, fired four small and ineffective bullets at each other, and stalked away, still angered by a dispute over the Bayonne Pawnshop scandal.

Deputy Andre Hesse and John Beineix, a lawyer and editor, faced each other at 32 yards in the Parc Des Princes within the shadow of giant goal posts.

Both were black, but eschewed the top hats prescribed by tradition in favor of derbies which they tipped before the encounter. Thirty seconds, doctors, and friends were present at the duel, which occurred before 20,000 empty seats.

Uninvited newspapermen and photographers scaled the walls of the stadium, on the outskirts of Paris, and watched from a distance, shivering, like the others, in a raw morning wind.

Hesse just escaped a bullet wound in the right shoulder when Beineix fired the fourth and last shot in the fight over the editor's article criticizing Hesse for acting as a lawyer for the late Serge Stavisky, founder of the Bayonne Municipal Pawnshop which collapsed with a loss of $400,000 to investors.

Duelling is unlawful in France but neither the police nor the courts are likely to act. It is customary to ignore such encounters unless they result in deaths.

GERMANY WILL MAKE PAYMENTS

By Tom Wilhelm
Associated Press Foreign Staff
Berlin, Jan. 25.—(P)—The possibility that Germany may increase the amount of interest and amortization payments she permits to be transferred abroad was indicated today during a meeting of foreign creditors' representatives and Reichsbank and government officials.

American and British bankers joined in opposing a recent reduction from 50 to 30 per cent in foreign payments, and efforts were started to induce the United States and England to accept additional German exports in return for a promise to allow full payments to be made.

The foreign creditors' agents were told that Germany anticipates 900,000,000 marks in revenue from exports, shipping, and services in 1934 with which to pay the $213,000,000 marks needed according to estimates to meet amortization and interest charges on foreign debts.

POLICEMEN ARE WITNESSES AT KIDNAP TRIAL

Small Town Officers Tell Of Capture Of Touhy Gang

By Robert M. Yoder

Chicago, Jan. 25.—(P)—The small town police who arrested Roger Touhy and three of his "bad men," and the young wife who waited and worried for 12 days while John Factor was held by kidnapers testified today in Illinois attempt to send four Touhy gangsters to the electric chair.

Wads of currency taken from Touhy's pockets by Elkhorn, Wis., police, pistols and a rifle taken from his car, tape and bandages found in his possession, were piled on a table as evidence. The tape and bandages were for use, the state contended, in blinding kidnap victims.

CLAIMS CONVICTS WERE FORCED TO EAT COLD FOOD

New Commissioner Says Gang Overlords Were Running Prison

New York, Jan. 25.—(P)—Fourteen hundred inmates of Welfare Island prison were forced to eat scanty and cold food, Commissioner Austin H. McCormick disclosed today, while the other 200 cooked steaks and chops over blazing stoves from the prison library.

The new commissioner, driving ahead with his investigation that started with a surprise raid on the penitentiary, ordered steam tables built quickly so that all the prisoners could enjoy as nourishing food as the gang overlords who he said had been running the prison.

He stopped virtually all communication with the island, held the prison "favorites" in solitary confinement, placed drug addicts in the hospital, and kept up his cell by cell search that netted additional narcotics and weapons.

District Attorney William C. Dodge said he would make an independent inquiry into prison conditions. U. S. Attorney Martin Conboy conferred with Frank L. Igoe, supervising federal narcotic agent, to determine whether the federal government could take action on the discovery of quantities of drugs in yesterday's raid.

Sixty-eight associates of Joie Rao, described as the gang czar of the prison, were segregated in cells with their leader, as were the subordinates of Eddie Cleary, head of another prison faction.

These men, McCormick said, had enjoyed the run of the island, kept carrier pigeons, and lived comfortably in the prison hospital. An investigation was started to ascertain whether these gangs had acted as agents for the sale of narcotics to other inmates, and whether the pigeons were used to bring the drugs onto the island.

MAKING ORAL MOTIONS

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 25.—(P)—Oral motions to quash indictments against H. L. Williamson and all others indicted with him on connection with his administration as state superintendent of printing were made today before Circuit Judge L. E. Stone.

Written motions setting out the grounds on which it is sought to quash the indictments, will be filed in about two weeks.

Confidence in The Law
Should a member of your family be kidnapped for ransom, what would you do? The first and most natural action would be to notify the police.
The second impulse probably would be to maintain secrecy and attempt to raise the ransom fund, particularly if threats were made of the life of the victim. Most of the kidnappers demand that "nothing be said about this to anyone," with threats of death if the instructions are not carried out to the letter.

Fortunately, the families of most kidnap victims follow the correct course. In the first great grief and sorrow they notify officers, who are trained in handling such situations.

The family of Edward Bremer, the young St. Paul, Minn., banker, has chosen the other course. They are careful for the safety of the abducted man. They are refusing to cooperate with the police. They are trying to deal with the kidnappers directly without the law taking a hand. No doubt they are afraid that too much activity by the police would result in Bremer's death.

The police, on the other hand, are at a distinct disadvantage. The public is aware of what has taken place and is clamoring for action in rounding up the kidnappers and returning the banker. But the police do not have the cooperation of the stricken family. The officers under such an attitude are at a disadvantage outside, trying to butt into a case where their services are not welcome.
They really have two problems to solve.

Secrecy which the Bremer family has thrown around the kidnapping is the result of fear for the safety of the missing man. The family should not be criticized for wanting one of its members returned alive. It should, however, take into confidence some reliable officer of the law and act under his instructions. A level-headed, competent official can do more toward bringing about the return of a missing person than a believed family.

This has been borne out time and again within the last few years, since the scourge of kidnapping descended on this country. Cases in which the police have been advised immediately have been solved and the criminals punished, while in a few instances the bunking of excited families has made the task much harder.

Officers of the law know that kidnappers expect families to seek the aid of the law. Threats of death are written into the demands often as a matter of form. Families that play into the hands of criminals and refuse to confide in police really are not protecting their loved ones. For what is a kidnapper's pledge?

Experienced law enforcement officers have said that this kind of an attitude on the part of families is one of the greatest aids to the kidnaping racket. It puts the law enforcement officers up against a stump. It leaves the kidnaper unmolested to drive his bargain and go on his way. It makes kidnapping easier.

The St. Paul mystery has brought grief to the Bremer family. They are praying for the return of the missing man, and bearing their sorrow in silence, believing it to be the more effective course. The strong arm of the law is ready to support them and it should not be pushed away.

Where There Are Pirates
We are accustomed to think of piracy as something the world has outgrown. Captain Kidd and his hearties are gone forever, and we suppose most of their buried treasure has been dug up and spent. Piracy has passed because the coasts of most civilized nations are properly policed.
The high seas have been cleared of pirates by the navies of countries with courage. Our war on Tripoli did much to do away with piracy.

But in the waters near the coasts of countries where government is weak, pirates still abound. The teeming waters of the seas and bays and the nearby ocean bordering the coast of China swarm with pirates.
The buccanniers prey on ships of commerce, kidnap people and hold them for ransom. They do this because there is no organized coast police to stop them and no navy to end their ships to Davy Jones.

Every strong nation knows the value of an efficient coast guard and a well-managed navy. Our own troubles along the coast were increased by rum ships during the era of prohibition, but with the disappearance of rum, the coast guard will not have so much to do. The running of illegal liquor was a form of piracy, whether we care to acknowledge it or not.

Death on The Highway
Early in 1933, there were fewer automobile accidents than during same period in 1932.

During the last half of 1933, however, the trend changed. In the year, 30,500 persons were killed—a 34 per cent advance over 1932.

The automobile accident toll follows the amount of gasoline used in the country with almost loving exactitude. During the first half of 1933, for example, when gas consumption was 3 per cent below the same period in 1932, there were fewer accidents.
During the last half gas use was 2.5

per cent above—and the accident record soared accordingly. The dangerous driver seems to have learned little from the ghastly experience of the past. He still exaggerates the safety factors of better cars and roads. He still cuts in and out of traffic still passes on blind curves and hills, still takes a chance to save a second. And he leaves behind him a shambles of deaths and injuries and needlessly ruined property.

Everything that mechanical and road engineers can do to make motoring safer is being done—an extremely small percentage of accidents can be blamed on car failure or poor roads. The accident problem is purely an individual one—resting with each auto owner and with the anthorities who make and enforce traffic ordinances.

In 1933 four states, whose names deserve being recorded on an "Honor Roll," achieved declines in their auto death rate—Illinois, Michigan, Virginia and Wisconsin. Other states should strive to follow them.

Waltzing
Dancing is almost back to normal.
That is, its pre-war status. The most convincing proof of it is that the waltz has returned. This fact is not only evident in any up to date ballroom and on the radio, but is officially admitted by dancing masters of New York state. It returned, they say, with prohibition repeal.

So people are dancing again slowly and gracefully to dreamy music, though the characteristic rhythm of a generation ago comes rather hard to young people habituated to hopping and jangling, and they often have to be shown how it is done by their fathers and mothers. It's a curious spectacle—parents in dancing better than their children—and the kids listening and patterning after them, instead of saying the old folks don't know anything. Here comes the Merry Widow. Steady now—one, two three—one, two, three.

It's all very elegant and respectable.
Why, some of the boys and girls are actually learning not to walk check to check. Decorum triumphs at last.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK
By Edson R. Waite

Governor Benjamin B. McQuinn, of Arizona, says:

"Even if the economic condition of the nation could be—over night—restored to a state which we have in the past termed 'normal,' there still would not be enough jobs to go around among the 12,000,000 persons now unemployed. Did it ever occur to you that the process of producing goods and industrial recovery some provision must be made in the scheme of things to care for that inescapable excess of labor over employment, if general prosperity is to be restored?"

"We are told by the sages that there is too much land in cultivation, that crops must be plowed under. It is a surplus in agricultural production. Did you ever stop to think that even while we are destroying such commodities there are hundreds of thousands of people in the United States going hungry for want of these very foodstuffs?" Then there is the evil lies elsewhere.

"The trend to the cities during past industrial prosperity has upset the balance. People must turn back to the elemental source of livelihood—the soil, which is capable of producing those things which are necessary to life. In the urban centers of the nation are countless citizens, suffering now for lack of incomes, who would jump at an opportunity to emigrate to the land—if they could buy that land. If they could equip it and finance a crop, and if they knew how to take their living from the soil after they possess it."

"The American government itself is the largest American landed proprietor. It could provide land for homes; it could even afford to buy land for homes, sell it with no down payments, equip it with the necessary livestock and machinery, finance the first and the second years' crops, and teach the homesteader how to grow his living—rather than to mete out a dole, which at best, is only a temporary, stop-gap measure to combat the hunger menace. Compact farm communities, of 20 to 40 acre tracts—made available by the government and strictly government supervised under the guidance of competent agricultural agents—might provide a surprisingly rapid remedy for industrial depression and open a reasonably certain route to national recovery."

"Did you ever stop to think that when you set out to cure an economic ill, as well as a physical ill, you should begin at the beginning?"

New Numbering for Illinois Highways

Federal Numbers to be Used

Many changes are being made in the numbering of highway routes in Illinois. Where the routes carry federal highway numbers, the state numbers are being removed. Several state routes are also being renumbered, in accordance with a uniform system.

Topeka, Kans. is 525 miles via US-36 to Pittsfield; US-54 to Kingdom
City, Mo. and US-40 to Topeka. All paved. A good optional route is via US-36 to St. Joseph, Mo. and thence on No. 4 to Topeka. This is a little shorter but there is some gravel road on No. 4.

Will Rogers
says:
To the Editor of The Journal-Courier
Beverly Hills, Calif., Jan. 25.—As a rule folks don't like war headlines, but there was one that was in the papers that hit the spot, "Roosevelt declares war on Civil Works grafters."

We recognized the new president in Cuba, I hope he stays in long enough to get acquainted with.

Just had a nice visit from Senator Henry Allen of Kansas, he said Kansas was feeling fine. Now when Kansas ain't kicking, things have got to be running about perfect.

Yours,
Will Rogers.

Confidence in The Law

Should a member of your family be kidnapped for ransom, what would you do? The first and most natural action would be to notify the police. The second impulse probably would be to maintain secrecy and attempt to raise the ransom fund, particularly if threats were made against the life of the victim. Most of the kidnappers demand that "nothing be said about this to anyone," with threats of death if the instructions are not carried out to the letter.

Fortunately, the families of most kidnap victims follow the first course. In their first great grief and excitement they notify officers, who are trained in handling such situations.

The family of Edward Bremer, the young St. Paul, Minn., banker, has chosen the other course. They are fearful for the safety of the abducted man. They are refusing to cooperate with the police. They are trying to deal with the kidnappers directly without the law taking a hand. No doubt they are afraid that too much publicity by the police would result in Bremer's death.

The police, in the meanwhile, are at a distinct disadvantage. The public is aware of what has taken place and is clamoring for action in rounding up the kidnappers and returning the banker. But the police do not have the cooperation of the stricken family. The officers under such an arrangement are just rank outsiders, trying to butt into a case where their services are not welcome. They really have two problems to solve.

Secrecy which the Bremer family has thrown around the kidnapping is the result of fear for the safety of the missing man. The family should not be criticized for wanting one of its members returned alive. It should, however, take into confidence some reliable officer of the law and act under his instructions. A level-headed competent official can do more toward bringing about the return of a missing person than a beleaguered family.

This has been borne out time and again within the last few years, since the scourge of kidnapping descended on this country. Cases in which the police have been advised immediately have been solved and the criminals punished, while in a few instances the bungling of excited families has made the task much harder.

Officers of the law know that kidnappers expect families to seek the aid of the law. Threats of death are written into the demands often as a matter of form. Families that play into the hands of criminals and refuse to confide in police really are not protecting their loved ones. For what is a kidnapper's hedge?

Experienced law enforcement officers have said that this kind of an attitude on the part of families is one of the greatest aids to the kidnapping racket. It puts the law enforcement officers up against a stump. It leaves the kidnaper unmolested to drive his bargain and go on his way. It makes kidnapping easier.

The St. Paul mystery has brought grief to the Bremer family. They are praying for the return of the missing man, and bearing their sorrow in silence, believing it to be the more effective course. The strong arm of the law is ready to support them and it should not be pushed away.

Where There Are Pirates

We are accustomed to think of piracy as something the world has outgrown. Captain Kidd and his hearties are gone forever, and we suppose most of their buried treasure has been dug up and spent. Piracy has passed because the coasts of most civilized nations are properly policed. The high seas have been cleared of pirates by the navies of countries with courage. Our war on Tripoli did much to do away with piracy.

But in the waters near the coasts of countries where government is weak, pirates still abound. The booming waters of the seas and bays and the nearby ocean bordering the coast of China swarm with pirates. The buccaneers prey on ships of commerce, kidnap people and hold them for ransom. They do this because there is no organized coast guard police to stop them and no navy to end their ships to Davy Jones.

Every strong nation knows the value of an efficient coast guard and a well-managed navy. Our own troubles along the coast were increased by rum ships during the era of prohibition; but with the disappearance of rum from the coast guard will not have so much to do. The running of illegal liquor was a form of piracy, whether we care to acknowledge it or not.

Death on The Highway

Early in 1933, there were fewer automobile accidents than during same period in 1932.

During the last half of 1933, however, the trend changed. In the year, 30,500 persons were killed—a 34 per cent advance over 1932.

The automobile accident toll follows amount of gasoline used in the country with almost loving exactitude. During the first half of 1933, for example, when gas consumption was 3 per cent below the same period in 1932, there were fewer accidents. During the last half gas use was 2.5

Federal Numbers to be Used Where Possible; Alter State Readings

Many changes are being made in the numbering of highway routes in Illinois. Where the routes carry federal highway numbers, the state numbers are being removed. Several state routes are also being renumbered, in accordance with a uniform system. This information was given out Thursday in the weekly bulletin of the Jacksonville Auto Club.

Dirt roads are in fair to good condition following rainfall last Monday. Oiled roads are in good condition.

Baltimore, Md. is 802 miles from Jacksonville via US-36 to Indianapolis and US-40 to Baltimore. All paved. Inquiry should be made during the winter months on conditions through the mountains. However, there is usually but very little difficulty getting through.

Fort Wayne, Ind. is 335 miles via US-66 to Chicago and US-24 to Fort Wayne. The gravel detour west of Logansport, Ind., on No. 24 has been reduced from 8 miles to approximately one-half mile. The rest of the route is all pavement.

Jefferson City, Mo. is 170 miles via US-36 to Pittsfield and US-54 to Jefferson City. Paved.

French Lick, Ind. is 265 miles via No. 16 to Springfield; No. 24 to Paris; No. 16 to the junction of No. 129; No. 129 to Ellettsburg; No. 33 to Newton; No. 130 to Olney; US-50 to Shoals, Ind.; and US-150 to French Lick. All paved.

Topeka, Kans. is 525 miles via US-36 to Pittsfield; US-54 to Kingdom City, Mo. and US-40 to Topeka. All paved. A good optional route is via US-36 to St. Joseph, Mo. and thence on No. 4 to Topeka. This is a little shorter but there is some gravel road on No. 4.

Visitors who called on M. O. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ogilvie and son on Saturday evening were as follows: Jesse Petefish and family of Litchfield; Clyde Lewis and family of Prentice; A. D. Petefish and family of near Chapin; Orville Petefish, Dewey Petefish and Miss Lora Petefish of Litchfield.

Mrs. A. M. Johnson went to Astoria on Wednesday noon to see her father, Wm. Price, who is sick.

The Ladies aid of the M. E. church met last Thursday afternoon with Mrs. John Webb. Most of the afternoon was spent in sewing. The meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. C. Brockhouse. A reading was given by Miss Edna Wilson. The attendance was good and all present enjoyed the occasion.

Howard E. Henderson started to Bloomington on Tuesday to secure employment. Sterling Andrew went with him to Jacksonville.

Mrs. Edith Denney and daughter Miss Helen of Jacksonville, called on Mrs. Northrup and Mrs. Weeks on Wednesday.

Man's Leg Injured in Road Collision

Herman Block, whose address is Hotel Angeles, El Paso, Texas, sustained a bad cut on one of his legs Wednesday night in an accident on the hard road two miles east of Jacksonville. Block was struck by a car driven by Attorney George Weaver of the Pittsfield, while he was watching a wrecker remove his own machine from a ditch where it had skidded a short time before.

The injured man was removed to Passavant hospital where he was attended by Dr. Carl E. Black. His condition Thursday was reported as improving, and he probably will be able to leave the hospital soon.

Block's car is reported to have come off the pavement and into a ditch. He called a wrecker and the work of getting the machine back on the highway was in progress when the Pittsfield car approached from the east.

Weaver said he was blinded by lights of a car coming and did not see the wrecker and gave up in time to stop. The Pittsfield car struck the car which was being pulled back on the pavement and also hit Block.

The TINYMITES
STORY BY HAL COCHRAN PICTURES BY JOE KING

Then, off they went, and my what fun! When little Duncy tried to run, he slipped and took a tumble.
"Are you all right?" Goldy cried.
Poor Duncy jumped right up and said, "Oh, sure! I'm coming. Go ahead." They reached the boat and found a little ladder by its side.
"Who's on this boat?" one Tiny roared. And then some of them climbed aboard. A man stepped from the cabin and exclaimed, "Well, who are you?"

"We're Tynymites," said Windy.
"Say, we surely hope you'll let us stay on board your ship. Perhaps there is some work that we can do."

Prescription and expect to feel like a new

For they can't do it. The medicine goes down and a more powerful action is set at work. The reason is, it doesn't touch the liver. It goes right to the bowels and makes them move. You feel better and you feel down and out. Your whole system is purified.
It takes three good, old CARTERS

It is unfair to call your car "a hard-starting brute," because you had to crank it by hand or beg a passing driver to give you a push that bent the rear bumper.

Perhaps you had the wrong gasoline in the tank! Always remember that high test is what it takes to start a motor in freezing weather.

Every gallon of Phillips 66 is packed with quick-starting elements. These super-volatile parts go to work at the first flash of the spark plugs. The gas is actually anxious to get going—so live and eager, that enthusiastic drivers say:
"On cold days Phillips 66 is like liquid lightning under the hood."

Maybe you have read quick-starting claims for gasolines that did not prove-up in your icy motor. But the chances are 100 to 1 that you have never seen any ad, except Phillips', which published in plain figures the exact gravity range.

These figures do more than prove that Phillips 66 is high test. They are conclusive evidence which tells you how high the test is.

Every time you start your car, after you Phill-up with Phillips, you will marvel at the instant response . . . the smoothness
... the quick warm-up. And freezing days or mild ones, you always get the pep, power, and mileage resulting from Phillips CONTROLLED VOLATILITY.

Here's the reason: As the temperature drops, the gravity of this greater gasoline goes up—protecting performance against changes in weather.

This high test and anti-knock motor fuel does not cost a penny over the price of regular. We are able to give this greater value because we are the world's largest producer of natural high gravity gasoline. So it costs you nothing to try a tankful. Phill-up with Phillips at the

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of calomel, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly alert and buoyant.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in pimples. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes three good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

Claims New Deal is Like Plans of Army

War Department's Set-up is Disclosed by Woodring: Defense Planned

Washington, Jan. 25.—(P)—One of the war department's semi-secrets was brought partially into the open today with a statement by Assistant Secretary Harry H. Woodring that President Roosevelt's creation of emergency agencies closely paralleled the army's "contemplated set-up for industrial mobilization."

Woodring's prepared address before the women's patriotic conference on national defense, by coincidence followed disclosure of a move on Capitol Hill to have the army and navy

Selling fur trimmed Winter Coats $9.85. THE EMPORIUM

"take Congress into their confidence" on secret plans for defending the nation in case of attack.

To Ask Survey
Chairman McSwain of the House military committee planned to ask the rules committee today to give a preferred status to his resolution for a survey by Congress of the defense system. He explained it was the constitutional duty of Congress to maintain a suitable army and navy, but that without more insight into official secrets legislators could not know whether they were going their duty.

Before the women's conference today, Woodring made partial disclosure of the army's proposed plan for mobilizing industry in the case of any war crisis. Although these plans are guarded by the war department, they are not hidden as completely as some projected emergency strategies because of surveys among the various businesses and industries that would be marshalled in time of war.

Woodring explained the industrial mobilization plans were designed to prevent profiteering, sabotage, or such chaos as accompanied the purchase of supplies at the start of the world war.

Things Look Brighter in Cuba Now

Reports They are Restless Issued as Election is Looming Larger

Washington, Jan. 25.—(P)—With next fall's elections looming larger daily, a group of House Democrats were self-reported as restless today because "we've had to take all the raps this session."

These were the words of a House leader who asked that his name be omitted, referring to the fact that the House has had to vote before the Senate on two major converted administration proposals—a continued federal pay cut and the dollar devaluation bill.

Speaking of the independent offices appropriation bill, dealing with veterans funds and the pay cut, which was passed without change on orders from the White House, the Democratic chief said:

"We had to adopt a gag rule under which House members couldn't do anything for the veterans when we know many veterans are being poorly treated."

Yet a day or so later the White House issued regulations easing up on some veterans. Some House members he pointed out, believe that when election time rolls around, the senators will get the credit, if any, for the liberalization because the bill was awaiting their approval when the presidential changes were announced.

The second spot, another administration leader said, was in the dollar devaluation bill. He put it this way: "A lot of us might have liked to vote to limit the life of the stabilization fund created by that bill, and to put the fund under the control of the board instead of one man. Yet we stood by the president and didn't."

"Now, with the president accepting one of the changes made by the Senate banking committee, the senators will get the credit and we'll get the blame."

Some House members feel rather strongly, and say so privately, that the Senate should pass the next controversial measure first.

Research in Business World Shows General Feeling of Optimism

By HOWARD W. BLACKSLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
New York, Jan. 25.—(P)—An assay of one-third of American industry, comprising the men who make the machines, was announced today by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers in its official journal.

Costs up, prices down, a 50-50 division of opinion on N.E.A. and a general feeling of optimism summarizes the survey. The technical name of this class of business is the capital-goods industries, and its product is machinery and mechanical equipment.

"Under conditions of normal business activity," says the report, "these industries account for about 30 billions out of a total of 80 billions of dollars of national business in the United States. They employ normally about eight million workers."

With activity of this section down to 30 per cent of normal, the council of the engineering society appointed a special committee to study prospects for revival of industry in this class. To make the survey representative, investigations were made in five cities selected for geographical spread and variety of products.

"The findings in general," says the report, "are these:

1—Production costs have increased, with only a few exceptions.
2—Prices have not advanced to cover increased production costs, and profits are down in the majority of the concerns reporting.
3—About two-thirds of the concerns have no plans for modernization of machinery and mechanical equipment.

4—About 60 per cent report that they would not invest in machinery or mechanical equipment at the present time.

As regards the effects of the N. E. A. and the codes of fair practice, the returns are equally divided for and against.
6—As regards optimism in pessimism toward the immediate future of business, the majority are optimistic."

War Department's Set-up is Disclosed by Woodring: Defense Planned

Washington, Jan. 25.—(AP)—One of the war department's semi-secrets was brought partially into the open today with a statement by Assistant Secretary Harry H. Woodring that President Roosevelt's creation of emergency agencies closely paralleled the army's "contemplated set-up for industrial mobilization."

Woodring's prepared address before the women's patriotic conference on national defense, by coincidence followed disclosure of a move on Capitol Hill to have the army and navy

Selling fur trimmed Winter Coats $9.85. THE EMPORIUM

"take Congress into their confidence" on secret plans for defending the nation in case of attack.

To Ask Survey
Chairman McSwain of the House military committee planned to ask the rules committee today to give a preferred status to his resolution for a survey by Congress of the defense system. He explained it was the constitutional duty of Congress to maintain a suitable army and navy, but that without more insight into official secrets legislators could not know whether they were going their duty.

Before the women's conference today, Woodring made partial disclosure of the army's proposed plan for mobilizing industry in the case of any war crisis. Although these plans are guarded by the war department, they are not hidden as completely as some projected emergency strategies because of surveys among the various businesses and industries that would be marshalled in time of war.

Woodring explained the industrial mobilization plans were designed to prevent profiteering, sabotage, or such chaos as accompanied the purchase of supplies at the start of the world war.

Things Look Brighter in Cuba Now

Symbols of Cuba's bright hopes for a "new deal," the capitol building in Havana was brilliantly flooded with light again—as pictured here—after the selection of Col. Carlos Mendieta as President. The legislative building had been dark during the island republic's months of political turmoil.

Democrats in House Claim They Get Rap

Reports They are Restless Issued as Election is Looming Larger

Washington, Jan. 25.—(AP)—With next fall's elections looming larger daily, a group of House Democrats were self-reported as restless today because "we've had to take all the raps this session."

These were the words of a House leader who asked that his name be omitted, referring to the fact that the House has had to vote before the Senate on two major controverted administration proposals—a continued federal pay cut and the dollar devaluation bill.

Speaking of the independent office appropriation bill, dealing with veterans funds and the pay cut, which was passed without change on orders from the White House, the Democratic chief said:

"We had to adopt a gag rule under which House members couldn't do anything for the veterans when we know many veterans are being poorly treated."

Yet a day or so later the White House issued regulations easing up on some veterans. Some House members he pointed out, believe that when election time rolls around, the senators will get the credit, if any, for the liberalization because the bill was awaiting their approval when the presidential changes were announced.

The second spot, another administration leader said, was in the dollar devaluation bill. He put it this way: "A lot of us might have liked to vote to limit the life of the stabilization fund created by that bill, and to put the fund under the control of the board instead of one man. Yet we stood by the president and didn't."

"Now, with the president accepting one of the changes made by the Senate banking committee, the senators will get the credit and we'll get the blame."

Some House members feel rather strongly, and say so privately, that the Senate should pass the next controversial measure first.

EXPLODING VESSEL RESULTS IN DEATH OF 216 IN ORIENT

Shanghai, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Two hundred and sixteen men, women and children were burned to death or drowned the night of Jan. 21 when the Chinese steamer Weiting caught fire in the Yangtze River, belated reports revealed today.

The vessel exploded and sang a few minutes after the blaze started. Only 34 persons escaped.

HOPE IS HELD FOR TRAYLOR RECOVERY

Chicago, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Hope for the recovery from an attack of pneumonia of Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank, increased today.

Mr. Traylor indicated his strength was increasing by saying: "I'm going to get well."

By HOWARD W. BLACKSLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
New York, Jan. 25.—(AP)—An assay of one-third of American industry, comprising the men who make the machines, was announced today by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers in its official journal.

Costs up, prices down, a 50-50 division of opinion on N.R.A., and a general feeling of optimism summarizes the survey. The technological name of this class of business is the capital-goods industries, and its product is machinery and mechanical equipment.

"Under conditions of normal business activity," says the report, "these industries account for about 30 billions out of a total of 80 billions of dollars of national business in the United States. They employ normally about eight million workers."

With activity of this section down to 30 per cent of normal, the council of the engineering society appointed a special committee to study prospects for revival of industry in this class. To make the assay representative, investigations were made in five cities selected for geographical spread and variety of products.

"The findings in general," says the report, "are these."

1—Production costs have increased, with only a few exceptions.

2—Prices have not advanced to cover increased production costs, and profits are down in the majority of the concerns reporting.

3—About two-thirds of the concerns have no plans for modernization of machinery and mechanical equipment.

5—As regards the effects of the N. R. A., and the codes of fair practice, the returns are equally divided for and against.

6—As regards optimism or pessimism toward the immediate future of business, the majority are optimistic."

THREE MEMBERS OF DILLINGER GANG CAPTURED

Charles Makley, Russell Clark And Harry Pierpont Nabbed at Tucson, Ariz.

Tucson, Ariz., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Charles Makley, Russell Clark and Harry Pierpont, three members of the Dillinger gang, were captured today.
Makley and Clark were overpowered in an apartment here where police said they had been living with two women companions.
About two hours later Pierpont and a woman were picked up in a tourist car in the southern part of the city just as they were preparing to leave, officers said.
Pierpont, elderly and mild mannered, calmly accompanied officers to police headquarters. There handcuffs were placed on him.
Clark, removed and he was told to sit down. Instead, police said, he whipped the two pistols and began moving toward the door. Police leaped upon him and disarmed him before he could fire.
Police said Makley and Clark had

in their possession two machine guns.
Upon returning to the apartment they had occupied, police later found more sub machine guns and a large quantity of ammunition.
Makley and Clark were taken only after police drew their weapons and threatened to shoot. One of them attempted to wrest a pistol from an officer.
In addition to the two pistols Pierpont had with him, other arms and ammunition were found concealed in his luggage.
The three men all earned large sums of money. At police headquarters $2,500 was taken from Mak-ley and Clark and later, at the county jail, Sheriff John Belton found $4-600 more in currency concealed about their clothing.
Makley, Clark and Pierpont were escapes prisoners from the Indiana State Prison. The Dillinger gang, eastern authorities said, is blamed for several murders and a long series of bank robberies.
Pierpont, a native of Terre Haute, Ind., is sought as a participant in many of the crimes charged to the Dillinger gang.

tentative. On the major items decided upon, formal votes were taken and they are expected to remain in the bill.

A slight reduction on lower incomes was effected but those in the higher brackets were increased on a graduating scale. This change is expected to bring in $26,000,000 additional. Under existing rates the treasury estimated revenue from income tax in the fiscal year 1935 would amount to $1,265,000,000.

Whether the income tax changes would be made retroactive so as to cover incomes of 1933 on which returns will be made in March has not yet been decided.

A flat 4 percent normal income tax rate on net incomes—that is, incomes after the deductions allowable have been made, according to whether a person is married and has dependents
—of $4,000 was approved. This eliminates the existing eight percent levy on the second $4,000. Instead, a surtax beginning on net incomes of over $4,000 at one percent, and graduating to 50 percent on those of $1,000,000 and more is imposed. The present surplus begins at one percent on net incomes of $5,000 and ranges to 55 percent on those of $1,000,000 and in excess, making the maximum tax 63 percent.

Thus a net income in excess of $1-000,000 with the four per cent normal and the 55 percent surtax under the new bill will bring in $538,748 compared with the present $591,103 return.

An amendment offered jointly by Representatives Bacharach (R. N. J.) and Samuel B. Hill (D. Wash.), to allow a ten percent reduction on the tax earned income not in excess of $5,000 was adopted by the committee to add small income taxpayers. For administrative purposes, $3,000 net is allowed for earned income, but the taxpayer must prove that any part of the remaining $5,000 is earned income.

The present exemptions of $2,500 for a married man; $1,000 for a single man; and $400 each for dependents are retained.

Thus, if a man makes $5,000 gross and is married, his net earned income, with the exemption, is $2,500.
The Bacharach-Hill amendment then allows a ten percent reduction on the net, or $250, and the tax is assessed on $2,250.

WANT DEFEATED MINE OFFICIALS TO ENTER MINES

Resolution on Subject is Referred to Committee on Constitution

Indianapolis, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Efforts by delegates to the United Mine Workers' convention here to pass a resolution specifying that union officials defeated in elections shall go back to work in the mines for at least a year before being eligible to appointive posts in the organization met with at least temporary defeat today.

After the most spirited debate of the convention, the resolution finally was referred to the committee on constitution.

The resolution, submitted by a local union at Westville, Ill., set forth that
"the membership has shown by refrendum vote that they are not satisfied with them and their services not desired any longer."

Percy Tietlow of Columbus, Ohio, secretary of the resolutions committee, which had recommended non-concurrence explained that sometimes a man might be defeated for an elective office by the union and yet possess qualities which would make him valuable for field work in another district.

Vice president Philip Murray said such a resolution would hamper the efforts of the international officers in carrying on the work of the union.

Delegates of delegates sought the attention of the chairman.

C. R. Tinner of Whitsett, Pa., declared all coal miners should have a chance at appointive jobs. He said the present policy "creates a political ring" within the organization.

John Wade of Westville, Ill., asked
"why should a man who is defeated for office go back into the mines and work like the rest of us?"
This resolution is one that the miners have needed for years. If these defeated officers go back into the mines for years they will learn something of conditions there that will be of benefit to them.

R. H. Noel, also of Westville, referred to appointive officers as "drones."

Walter W. Jones of Pratt City, Ala., came to the defense of the appointive officers. He said that the union had made unprecedented advances within the last seven months and much of the work had been done by field workers appointed by the international president.

"The man who organized our state," Jones said, "was one who defeated for office in his own district. Now we have 2,300 under the banner of the U. M. W. A. due in a large part to this man's efforts."

Vice president Murray outlined the efforts of the union officials in connection with the unionization of the captive mines.

He told of the recent ruling of the national labor board which designated the officials of the United Mine Workers as the representatives of the workers in the captive mines and of a second ruling by the board requiring the establishment of the check-off system in these shafts.

He said that immediately after adjourning of the convention the international officials would proceed in their efforts to negotiate a contract with the captive mine owners.

A tailor, Joseph Golden, declared he was compelled to join Gorman's union and to sign the "Squires" contract which was framed in settling an industry dispute by Dr. Benjamin F. Squires, a University of Chicago lecturer who acted as arbitrator. Squires, a defendant, formerly headed the Cleaners' Dyeing Institute, a superstructure which rose out of the industry's warfare.

Golden testified he broke away from the union later and formed a neighborhood dealers who patronized an independent cleaning plant. The bombing of this plant was blamed on the defendants by the state.

William Loewy, a cleaning plant operator, testified that although he had hired union men for 12 years a strike suddenly was called at his plant in 1931. Gorman was named as chief of the picketers. When Loewy went to Dr. Squires for an explanation, he testified, he was told he had accepted work from a non-organization group.
He was promised certain customers "stolen" by Gorman, testified, by cancelling the objectionable contracts.

MACK ATTERBERRY HOME IS DAMAGED

A fire said to have been caused by a leaky gas main caused slight damage to the residence of Mack Atter-berry, 333 Broadway Alley at 11 40 o'clock last night. The main was not in use and evidently had developed a leak. The fire department quickly extinguished the flames, which were burning briskly when the firefighters arrived.

TWO GANGSTERS CLAIMED TO BE RULING PRISON

New York, Jan. 25.—(AP)—A mild-mannered stranger from Chillicothe,
O., tore the false-face from Welfare Island penitentiary today and showed a scandalized New York "the worst prison in the world."

Austin H. MacCormick, mayor La-Guardia's "specialist" appointee as commissioner of corrections for New York City, has only been in town a fortnight from Chillicothe where he was in charge of the federal reformatory. No one had anticipated so soon at least, such a coup as he directed yesterday.

His descent upon the island prison yesterday was so well planned that neither the 1,700 prisoners nor Warden Joseph McCann himself was aware of the purpose.

Commissioner MacCormick expressed astonishment at conditions on the island, and after finding it reeking with gang rule, narcotic addicts and ugly viciousness he called it "the worst prison in the world."

Disorders Made
Some of the disorders uncovered by the commissioner and described by him as "almost beyond belief" were:
The prison population was virtually under the thumbs of two gangster inmates.

These leaders had unnumbered special privileges.
They enjoyed valet service, special food, special sleeping quarters, special liberties.

They kept pets and raised flowers.
One of the leaders—the notorious Joseph Rao who was the unsought target of the infamous Harlem "baby killers" two years ago—even had his own monogrammed stationery. (When MacCormick's men walked in yesterday morning Rao was shaving. Ordered to "Come along," he merely waved his hand tolerantly and said: "I'll go with the next batch." A brawny deputy commissioner snatched Rao out of his majesty with a quick "You'll go now, Rao.")

The other leader—Edward Cleary, a rogue with a black record—had a vicious police dog chained to his bed.

DENIES MOTION
Belleville, Ill., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Circuit
Judge M. V. Joyce today denied a motion of four defendants for bills of particulars in the St. Clair county tax graft case, in which the four are charged with conspiracy to bribe.

Judge Joyce had the motion under consideration since Monday, when it was argued.

The defendants scheduled to go on trial Feb. 26, are Edward J. Delmore, vice president of the Hunter Packing company; Arthur P. O'Leary, former chairman of the county board of review; Charles Melvin, member of the county board of assessors; and Frank P. McKane, secretary of the board of review.

ISSUE LICENSE
St. Louis, Jan. 25.—(AP)—A. M. Attorney, deputy governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, announced today the secretary of the treasury had authorized the issuance of a license to the Farmers and Merchant's Bank of Hannibal, as a member of the federal reserve system.

LIBBY HOLMAN WILL TRY COMEBACK UPON STAGE IN DRAMATICS

Philadelphia, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Libby Holman, "torch singer" who was widowed by the bullet which killed Z.
Smith Reynolds, heir to tobacco millions, is studying dramatics for what is believed to be an intended Broadway comeback.

In a select class of twelve pupils, she is tracing the path which has been beaten to the door of the Hedgerow theater in the beautiful little Rose Valley 25 miles outside Philadelphia.

Jasper Deeter, head of the theater where Ann Harding got her start, directs the class. The husky-throated Broadway star is a "proficient pupil," he says.

"She merely explained that there were some things she would like to "unlearn," Deeter asserted.

Little more could be learned, because Mrs. Holman has remained in seclusion since Reynolds was shot at Winston-Salem, N. C., on July 6, 1932.
She was indicted in connection with the death, but the case was not prossed. Her son was born six months later and, in her own interview, the mother said her only plans were for him.

Now the star who packed theaters while she sang "Moonin' Low" and

"Something to Remember You By" The mother of a baby who is expected to receive $2,000.00 from his father's estate—is paying $10 a lesson to learn dramatics.

War widows and restoration of disability cases presumed, before passage of the economy act, to have had service origin—would cost less than

The two points embraced in the regulations would restore the $100 a month compensation for total disabilities and provide free hospitalization for veterans unable to pay for such treatment whether their disabilities were service-connected or not.

WOMAN GETS TERM
East St. Louis, Ill., Jan. 25.—(AP)—
Mrs. Viola Calvin Miller, 22, pleaded guilty to the slaying of Marion Brown, Sept. 17, last, when arraigned yesterday before City Judge Ralph Cook.

Judge Cook sentenced Mrs. Miller to a term of from one to fourteen years in the Illinois state penitentiary for women at Dwight, Ill.

Charles Makley, Russell Clark and Harry Pierpont Nabbed at Tucson, Ariz.

Tucson, Ariz., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Charles Makley, Russell Clark and Harry Pierpont were captured by police at Tucson, Ariz., today.

Pierpont, identified by police as members of the notorious Dillinger gang of Chicago, and two women companions were arrested today.

Makley and Clark were overpowered in an apartment here where police said they had been living with two women companions.

About two hours later Pierpont and a woman were picked up in a tourist court in the southern part of the city just as they were preparing to leave, officers said.

Pierpont, elderly and mild mannered, willingly accompanied officers to police headquarters. There handcuffs which had been placed on him were removed and he was told to sit down. Instead, police said, he whipped out two pistols and began moving toward the door. Police leaped upon him and disarmed him before he could fire.

Police said Makley and Clark had

in their possession two machine guns. Upon returning to the apartment they had occupied, police later found two more sub machine guns and a large quantity of ammunition.

Makley and Clark were taken only after police drew their weapons and threatened to shoot. One of them attempted to wrest a pistol from an officer.

In addition to the two pistols Pierpont had with him, other arms and ammunition were found concealed in his luggage.

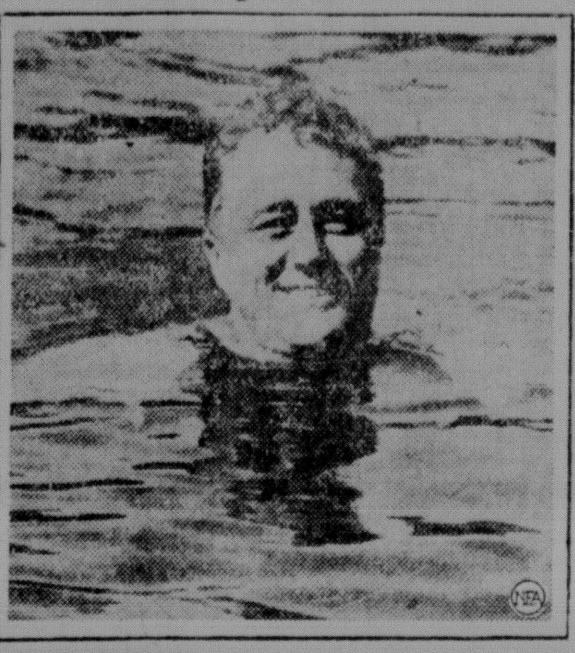

The three men all carried large sums of money. At police headquarters $2,500 was taken from Makley and Clark and later, at the county jail, Sheriff John Bellon found $4,600 more in currency concealed about their clothing.

Makley, Clark and Pierpont were escaped prisoners from the Indiana State Prison. The Dillinger gang, eastern authorities said, is blamed for several murders and a long series of bank robberies.

Pierpont, a native of Terre Haute, Ind., is sought as a participant in many of the crimes charged to the Dillinger gang.

tentative. On the major items decided upon, formal votes were taken and they are expected to remain in the bill.

A slight reduction on lower incomes was effected but those in the higher brackets were increased on a graduated scale. This change is expected to bring in $36,000,000 additional. Under existing rates the treasury estimated revenue from income tax in the fiscal year 1935 would amount to $1,265,000,000.

Whether the income tax changes would be made retroactive so as to cover the years of 1933 on which returns will be made in March has not yet been decided.

A flat 4 percent normal income tax rate on net incomes—that is, incomes after the deductions allowable have been made, according to whether a person is married and has dependents—of $4,000 was approved. This eliminates the existing eight percent levy on the second $4,000. Instead, a surtax beginning on net incomes of over $4,000 at one percent, and graduating to 59 percent on those of $1,000,000 and more is imposed. The present surtax begins with one percent on net incomes of $6,000 and ranges to 55 percent on those of $1,000,000 and in excess, making the maximum tax 63 percent.

Thus a net income in excess of $1,000,000 with the four per cent normal and the 59 percent surtax, under the new bill will bring in $636,746 compared with the present $591,103 return.

An amendment offered jointly by Representatives Bachrach (R. N. J.) and Samuel B. Hill (D. Wash.), to allow a ten percent reduction on the net earned income not in excess of $8,000 was adopted by the committee to aid small income taxpayers. For administrative purposes, $3,000 net is allowed for earned income, but the taxpayer must prove that any part of the remaining $5,000 is earned income.

The present exemptions of $2,500 for a married man; $1,000 for a single man, and $400 each for dependents are retained.

Thus, if a man makes $5,000 gross and is married, his net earned income, with the exemption, is $2,500. The Bachrach-Hill amendment then allows a ten percent reduction on the net, or $250, and the tax is assessed on $2,250.

WANT DEFEATED MINE OFFICIALS TO ENTER MINES

Resolution on Subject is Referred to Committee on Constitution

Indianapolis, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Efforts by delegates to the United Mine Workers convention here to pass a resolution specifying that union officials defeated in elections shall go back to work in the mines for at least a year before being eligible to appointive posts in the organization met with at least temporary defeat today.

After the most spirited debate of the convention, the resolution finally was referred to the committee on constitution.

The resolution, submitted by a local union at Westville, Ill., set forth that "the membership has shown by referendum vote that they are not satisfied with them and their services not desired any longer."

Percy Tetlow of Columbus, Ohio, secretary of the resolutions committee which had recommended non-concurrence, explained that sometimes a man might be defeated for an elective office in the union and yet possess qualities which would make him valuable for field work in another district.

Vice president Philip Murray said such a resolution would hamper the efforts of the international officers in carrying on the work of the union.

Dozens of delegates sought the attention of the chairman.

C. R. Timney of Westsett, Pa., declared all coal miners should have chance at appointive jobs. He said the present policy "creates a political ring" within the organization.

Junius Woods of Westville, Ill., asked "why shouldn't a man who is defeated for office go back into the mines and work like the rest of us? This resolution is one that the miners have needed for years. If these defeated officers go back into the mines for a year they will learn something of conditions there that will be of benefit to them."

R. H. Noel, also of Westville, referred to appointive officers as "drones."

Walter W. Jones of Pratt City, Ala., came to the defense of the appointive officials. He said that the union had made unprecedented advances within the last seven months and much of the work had been done by field workers appointed by the international president.

"The man who organized our state," Jones said, "was once defeated for office in his own district. Now we have 2,300 under the banner of the U. M. W. A. due in a large part to this man's efforts."

Vice president Murray outlined the efforts of the union officials in connection with the unionization of the captive mines.

He told of the recent ruling of the national labor board which designated the officials of the United Mine Workers as the representatives of the workers in the captive mines and of a second ruling by the board requiring the establishment of the check-off system in these shafts.

He said that immediately after adjournment of the convention the international officials would proceed in their efforts to negotiate a contract with the captive mine owners.

A tailor, Joseph Golden, declared he was compelled to join Gorman's union and to sign the "Squires" contract which was framed in settling an industry dispute by Dr. Benjamin F. Squires, a University of Chicago lecturer, who acted as arbitrator. Squires, a defendant, formerly headed the Cleaners' Dyers' Institute, a superstructure which rose out of the industry's warfare.

Golden testified he broke away from the union later and formed a combination with a group of neighborhood dealers who patronized an independent cleaning plant. The bombing of this plant was blamed on the defendants by the state.

William Loewy, a cleaning plant operator, testified that although he had joined the union for 12 years a strike suddenly was called at his plant in 1931. Gorman was named as chief of the picketers. When Loewy went to Dr. Squires for an explanation, he testified, he was told he had accepted work from a non-organization group. He was promised certain customers "stolen" by Gorman, testified, by cancelling the objectionable contracts.

Jacksonville high will play Ashland in the first game of the semi-final round Friday night, and New Berlin and Chandlerville winners tonight will meet in the other semi-final. Jacksonville was crowned the champion free throw team in the tournament at the conclusion of the tests this evening, the Crimson registering a total of 33 hits out of 49 shots. Albie Kotner, J. H. S. forward, was the high point man of the tournament, scoring seven straight tosses out of seven shots. Chandlerville won second place with 29 points. Modesto, Franklin and Pleasant Plains tied for third with 28 points. Ashland was fourth with 24 points. New Berlin fifth with 23, and Waverly last with 10.

Chandlerville waited until the second half to establish itself as the favorite over Waverly, leading 7-6 at the end of the half, after Waverly had taken a 4-3 lead in the first quarter. Chandlerville was in front 16-8 at the end of the third quarter.

New Berlin set some sort of a record for consistency, scoring 11 points in each of the four quarters of its game with Pleasant Plains. ROLAND BOYNTON
ACQUITTED BY SENATE COURT

Misdemeanor Charges Against Kans. Attorney General Dismissed

Topeka, Kas., Jan. 25.—(P)—The Kansas Senate court of impeachment acquitted Attorney General Roland Boynton of misdemeanor charges today and then took up the trial of State Auditor Will J. French, also accused of dereliction in office as an outgrowth of the state forged bond scandal.

On only one of the four articles of impeachment on which Boynton was tried was there a majority for conviction. The vote was 22 to 18, or five less than the required two-thirds majority.

"I feel that I have been fully vindicated," the attorney general said, smilingly returned to his office. The charges against both Boynton and French were brought by the House of Representatives in connection with the operations of Ronald Finney, 35-year-old bond broker accused of engineering the million dollar bond swindle. Finney is under preliminary arrest for forgery.

Boynton and French are not involved in criminal charges but were accused in the impeachment articles of permitting or conspiring to allow Finney to defraud the state.

Tom B. Boyd, who resigned the state treasury under fire, is on trial in district court on charges of illegally removing $260,000 worth of bonds from the treasury which Finney used in his extensive dealings. Boyd closed his defense today without taking the witness stand.

Investigators of Gov. Alf M. Landrum found $4,000 worth of forged bonds in the state treasury as security for state funds deposited in three Kansas banks controlled by the Finney family, and more than $300,000 of fake bonds were discovered in the hands of Chicago brokerage houses, which were selling them in the market speculations. The Finney banks are closed and Warren W. Finney, Esquire banker and father of Ronald, has been sentenced to prison for embezzlement.

The majority vote for conviction against Boynton was returned on the count alleging he was negligent in following up a case of bond coupon forgeries brought to his attention by Thomas county authorities.

Boynton admitted friendship with the bond broker and profiting through market transactions with Finney, but declared there was no wilful misconduct on his part.

Chapin business callers in Jacksonville yesterday included Irvin Auldenkamp.

STUDENTS LEAVE
IOWA, HOP TRAIN
FOR WEST SCHOOL

Los Angeles, Jan. 25.—(P)—Two personable young men recently freshmen basketball stars of the University of Iowa—Duane Swanson and Wayne Fromm—dropped in at the University of Southern California campus yesterday to find that since they had left Iowa they had become the center of an argument which might blight their college future.

"It was all news to us," said Swanson, whose home is in Waterman, Ill., when the two were informed that Coach Rollie Williams, Hawkeye cage mentor, had charged that some one connected with the University of Southern California had enticed them away.

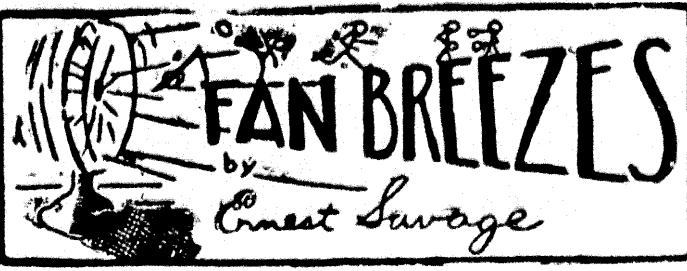

But they are not going back to Iowa. Swanson and Fromm wanted that point made clear. Fromm is from Webster, Ia.

"We came out here with the idea of enrolling at Southern California," they said. "No one said anything to us about it. We'd heard a lot about the school and were dissatisfied at Iowa. So we just climbed on a freight train and here we are."

James Hadden and William Phillips, students at Blackburn College at Carlinville, arrived in the city Thursday afternoon and will visit until Monday at the home of Mr. Hadden's parents.

Tournaments still hold their attraction, we rather after hearing reports from both Ashland and Winchester where meetings are underway this week. Greene county is looking for another big turnout in the Carrollton gym next week too.

A report circulated around here yesterday that 25 points is the Little 19 conference season record for one game, and everyone was bawling the fact that Lastier didn't have a chance to smack the record for a row of loops.

Lastier, as we have been telling you for some time, is a much improved basketball player over what he was when Athletic Director Van Meter first took hold of him. The big tall boy has developed rhythm, if you get what we mean.

He can stand under the basket and take a ball just the right time to get perfect rebounds. And don't think that Lastier is the whole team, Jim Winn, who plunked in 17 points against Shurtliff, does some of the slickest caging it has been our pleasure to see in amateur ranks. Most of Winn's shots against Shurtliff came from back of the free throw line, but the Blueboy ace kept plunking the ball through the hoop.

Jacksonville and surrounding country turned out in great style to see the two conference scoring leaders, Lastier and Winn, perform. However, we must admit that we were ahead. Lastier was seven points ahead of Winn when the evening began, and he added another seven points to his margin over the slender lead before he was removed from the game.

Lastier, according to our figures, has scored a total of 99 points in eight conference games, and Winn now has

ISSUES CHALLENGE
New York, Jan. 25.—(P)—Barney Ross, king of the lightweights, formally challenged Jimmy McLarnin, welterweight champion, today.

The youthful Chicagoan, decisive victor over clouting Billy Petrolle here last night, signed a contract for a match with McLarnin, agreeing to accept a percentage of the gate and personally guarantee the welterweight champion $55,000.

The bout would be held in New York in late May or early June under the auspices of a local charity (McLarnin's milk fund) with Tom Ardie as promoter of record.

Charley (Pop) Foster, McLarnin's manager, said at Berkeley, Calif., that no other man Ross had been received but that he will be ready to negotiate when it arrives.

LAW IS LAW AND HONESTY IS NOT
"BEST POLICY"

Chicago Man Pays Honest
Debts But Uncle Sam
Wants His Money

Chicago, Jan. 25.—(P)—The law is the law; therefore, honesty is not the best policy.

In 1925, the late Rudolph H. Donnelly's brokerage business went into bankruptcy and his large debts were settled for anywhere from 10 to 26 cents on the dollar.

So far as the law went, he owed not a cent.

But his conscience would not let him run away from his debts. In 1927, from the profits of the printing business he later established, he paid off every creditor. The twenty-two-year old debt total of $141,687.82 and he added the interest, which amounted then to $131,856.53.

So much for the honesty; now for the law.

Donnelly, computing his income tax for 1927 deducted, on the ground that it was a debt, the total of $273,544.35 from his income for that year. But the government held that he had been discharged from bankruptcy and that he did not owe anything; consequently, the internal revenue experts ruled, his payments were gifts and as such liable to income tax. The tax claimed was $68,439.34.

Today, the United States circuit court of appeals handed down its final decision. "These payments," it said, "were gifts and were really gifts, although the legitimate object is commendable. We have endeavored, although unsuccessfully, to evolve a theory on which deduction might be predicated; none has been found."

So his children, the executors of Donnelly, who died Feb. 25, 1929, must pay $68,439 more for their father's honesty.

MINERS' CONVENTION CONSIDERS NUMEROUS PROBLEMS, PROPOSALS

Indianapolis, Jan. 25.—(P)—After side-tracing a resolution seeking to halt the march of machines into the coal mines, the 33rd constitutional convention of the United Mine Workers today considered hundreds of other proposals submitted by local unions.

The resolutions range all the way from recommendations that salaries of officials be reduced to pleas that Mooney and Billings be released from prison in California. Many concern internal affairs of the union. It was expected all of today's sessions would be devoted to action on them.

The resolution seeking to remove machines from mines, submitted by a local at Evansville, Ind., caused considerable debate. It requested the convention to adopt provisions for the gradual removal of machinery from mines, enlisting cooperation of the operators and the state and federal governments.

Delegates from Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois and Kentucky joined the Indiana miners in urging its adoption, but a substitute resolution favoring approval, setting forth that rather than object to mechanization of the mining industry, the convention should bend its efforts toward the goal of a shorter work day and week.

Many of the resolutions pertain to salaries of the international officers. President John L. Lewis receives $12,000 annually; Vice President Philip Murray gets $9,000 and Secretary-Treasurer Thomas Kennedy, $9,000. Some propose that these salaries be reduced thirty to fifty per cent while others recommended they be increased.

MRS. H. L. ICKES DECIDES NOT TO SEEK REELECTION

Republican Legislator Will Join Husband in National Capital

Washington, Jan. 25.—(P)—The situation of being simultaneously a cabinet wife in Washington and a republican legislator in Illinois has become "too complicated" for even energetic Mrs. Harold L. Ickes, and so she announced today she wouldn't run again.

"Three times in three weeks I went out there and back," she said, immediately after announcing "with deep regret" her decision to cease representing the Chicago-area residents in the industrial-suburban district that thrice elected her.

Several of her reasons shimmered down to the old fashioned tenet that, after all is said and done in these feminine terms, a wife's place is with her husband.

"The situation was becoming just too complicated," she said. "Naturally I'm enthusiastic over the administration here. If I had known what was going to happen to my husband, I wouldn't have run for re-election. I'm a loudmouth, for that would have left my district unrepresented."

"Since Mr. Ickes' home is here indefinitely, and commuting back and forth is not satisfactory, either from my point of view or that of the district I represent, I felt it important to make the decision, and do it in time to allow the district to pick my successor."

Once Mrs. Ickes lunched in Chicago, and arrived in Washington in time to go to the first official reception held by the Roosevelts in the White House. Again, with time-difference in her favor, she lunched with Mrs. Roosevelt and got home in time for dinner at her Chicago place in Hubbard Woods.

Her term does not expire until next January.

"I am going to the next special session of the legislature, and I look forward to an interesting session," she said.

Although she has been in Washington only on a part-time basis, she already has made a record as among the most energetic and public-spirited women in official life.

She often is seen at philanthropic affairs. She several times has made speeches about the Indians of that Mesa land of the southwest where she spends her summers.

Jacksonville high will play Ashland in the first game of the semi-final round Friday night, and New Berlin and Chandlerville, winners tonight, will meet in the other semi-final.

Jacksonville was crowned the champion free throw team in the tournament at the conclusion of the tests this evening. The Crimmins registering a total of 33 hits out of 49 shots. Albie Ketter, J. H. S. forward, was the high point man of the tournament, scoring seven straight tosses out of seven shots. Chandlerville won second place with 29 points. Modesto, Franklin and Pleasant Plains tied for third with 25 points. Ashland was fourth with 24 points. New Berlin fifth with 23, and Waverly last with 18.

Chandlerville waited until the second half to establish itself as the favorite over Waverly, leading 7-6 at the end of the half, after Waverly had taken a 4-3 lead in the first quarter. Chandlerville was in front 16-8 at the end of the third quarter.

New Berlin set some sort of a record for consistency, scoring 11 points in each of the four quarters of its game with Pleasant Plains. The pace was fast through the first quarter when the Pretzels took an 11-7 lead, but only New Berlin kept going in the second quarter. The half ended 22-13, and the third quarter 33-14.

S. varsity freshman-sophomore team, and the final tilt will involve Routt's varsity and the University high team of Normal.

Coach Burns plans to continue using the same line-up which upset Ottawa last week. It consists of Cox and Gordon, forwards, Thurman, center, Dorri and Garland guards. This line-up probably will appear against Franklin, and either the 16's or 17's will play the Mercedia quintet.

One change has been made in the Routt high line-up to boost its aggressiveness. Mario Cicuto has been lifted to a first team position and will team with Genetoe in the guard position. Cicuto will be at center in the varsity game, with Schumm and Blesse at forwards.

Tournaments still hold their attraction, we gather after hearing reports from both Ashland and Winchester where meeting are underway this week. Greene county is looking for another big turnout in the Carrollton gym next week too.

A report circulated around here yesterday that 25 points is the Little 19 conference scoring record for one game, and everyone was bewailing the fact that Lasiter didn't have a chance to smack the record for a row of loops.

Lasiter, as we have been telling you for some time, is a much improved basketball player over what he was when Athletic Director Van Meter first got hold of him. The big tall boy has developed rhythm, if you get what we mean.

He can stand under the basket and tap the ball at just the right time to get perfect rebounds. And don't think that Lasiter is the whole team. Jim Winn, who planked in 17 points against Shurtliff, does some of the slickest caging it has been our pleasure to see in amateur ranks. Most of Winn's shots against Shurtliff came from back of the free throw circle, but the Blueboy ace kept plunking the ball through the hoop.

Jacksonville and surrounding countryside turned out in great style to see the two conference scoring leaders, Lasiter and Winn, perform. However, we must admit that we were duped. Lasiter was seven points ahead of Winn when the evening began, and he added another seven points to his margin over the slender lad before he was removed from the game.

Lasiter, according to our figures, has scored a total of 99 points in eight conference games, and Winn now has Winchester, Jan. 25.—(Special)—Nebo high's stalwarts scored a sensational basketball victory over Pittsfield high school, defeated only twice before this season, here tonight to send the 12th annual Winchester invitational tournament on its 1934 journey. A hectic battle from start to finish, Nebo's up and coming band of cagers flung in 18 points to nose out Pittsfield with 14 points, neither team at any time having a margin that would justify letting up the least bit. Barry defeated Bluffs 31-19 in the second game of the opening evening's card.

By winning tonight, Nebo and Barry advanced to the semi-final round which will be played Saturday afternoon.

Murrayville and Griggsville will meet Friday night to fight for the right to meet the winner of the Winchester-Chapin game in the other half of the semi-final round.

A crowded roaring house howled its way through the first game, both Pittsfield and Nebo bringing large delegations of supporters. Pittsfield took a lead at the start, holding a 4-2 advantage after the first eight minutes of play, but Nebo forged to the front at half time 7-6. Nebo outscored Pittsfield 4-2 in the third quarter, leading 11-8 at the end, and added a point to its advantage before the game wound up.

Applegate and Hollis were the big noises in the upset. Applegate flipped in seven points and Hollis barged through the Pittsfield defense to ring up six points. Junior Brant kept Evans in the running with six points. Junior Brant kept Evans in the running with six points, leading his team in scoring.

Bluffs held Barry at bay until the last quarter, trailing only six points when the last eight minutes began.

Barry had a 9-5 advantage at the end of the first quarter, and a 14-10 margin at the end of the half. Barry turned on full steam in the final quarter to clinch their place in the semi-finals.

Married Flirts

CHAPTER XIX

THERE was the cabin at Wading Hollow, of course. Let it not be thought for an instant that the young Weavers had forgotten that. But while it was ideal for weekends, perfect for a brief vacation, it was not to be thought of as a regular living place. For one thing, it was much too far from the city—70 miles on the railroad. The commuting would be both difficult and expensive and on those nights when Tom was kept late, Gypsy would be quite alone in an isolated and lonely place. It was a delightful place to camp, however, and on several spring Saturdays a small car might be seen ploughing through the sandy road, spilling bundles at it went.

Sue Canavan and Hunt Gibson came down one bright, blowy Sunday in May and Sue raved over the place—the smell of the sea and the snug little cabin with its bunks and its oil stove and its blue curtains. They had a merry supper out of doors, Tom broiling steaks over the coals and Gypsy ladling out potato salad.

"If I owned the place," Sue said reflectively, lying luxuriously on an army blanket, "I'd never leave it. I'd dig myself in and live on roots and berries." Sue was red-haired, blue-eyed, enthusiastic. She was some lucky man's good secretary, down in the city.

"You would not!" Hunt roused himself lazily to contradict her. "You're a Fifth Avenue hound and you can't do it. You like this in small doses but, deep down, you want to live a stone's throw from Times Square."

"There's something in that," Sue admitted. "But honestly, Gypsy, I'm mad about this place. Why didn't we ever come before?"

"Well, Rosina was here most of last summer," Gypsy told her. "It's Tom's property, really, but the family love it so they sort of have it on shares. The children adore it."

Tom caught her eye and she smiled at him, thinking of the child who might—who most certainly would—be with them here the following summer. Barling Tommy, how handsome he was with the sunburn blotting out his winter pallor and his long legs stretched out on the sand! What a pity they couldn't stay! Here all summer long, forget the job and the apartment and everything else. Well, there was no use wishing for the moon. You just had to enjoy things as they came.

TOM, on the other side of the fire, felt his heart swell with love for the small, gallant girl in the deck chair. Gypsy's color was enoching today—she was all apricot and brown tones—and the sea air had made her hair one mass of feathery ringlets.

Gypsy ate and drank with him. The curls lay damp on her forehead. Her dotted Swiss frock, many times washed and now guiltless of crispness, fell in limp folds around her. Her eyes were ringed. Sleepless nights were beginning to make their mark upon her. And yet she had, reclining there, the strangely appealing beauty that comes to some women facing the great adventure of motherhood. Tom thought he had never seen her so lovely. Her face was thinner. The purity and integrity of her features was finely etched. Her eyes were large, weary, brooding.

Heartened by the food and by the current and fitful breeze now stirring the curtains, she said to him: "Some day we'll laugh at all this. We'll be in our big garden, strolling under our own trees, and wonder why we made such a fuss about one little summer. We'll have Tommy Junior and Susy Belle with us and we'll tell them about the terrible siege in the East Fifties that hot summer."

But she could not win a smile to Tom's lips. He was deadly serious. He was infinitely depressed.

"By this time I'd hoped to have a real place for you—a home," he said, throwing one disparaging glance at the four walls. "This is the time that counts, really. You ought to have everything—yachts and servants and comfort."

Gypsy was the stronger now. She chaffed him gently. This was a bad time, she admitted, but they'd get through it. It didn't really matter. And indeed she felt at that moment she could face anything with Tom by her side.

BUT the following day, waking to brassy skies, the thought of coolness of trees blowing, of windows opening onto green vistas, possessed her like a madness. The brick walls of the courtyard seemed to press in on her. The nights were fiery furnaces to try men's souls.

Tom knew this—sensed the tension and the turbulence in her. Day after burning day he left her, to find her white, gallant, smiling at night. They walked sometimes to the park, trying to find solace in the splashing fountains. But there was no real release any where.

One particularly hot afternoon Gypsy was aroused from a fitful dore by the ringing of the telephone. Tom's voice, joyous, renewed, came to her.

"Darling, what do you think? Pack up your duds—we're moving out to the Island."

"Not to the Hollow?" Had he gone suddenly mad? He knew he could never commute from there.

"No!" He sounded exultant. "I've made a dicker with Mac. He's letting me have his place at Port Washington because he wants to be in town."

Mac was McKinnon, one of the men in Tom's office. His wife, Tom explained, had gone out to her people in St. Paul for the summer, taking the children. Mac was tired of commuting. He fairly leaped at the idea of the Weavers' trim little apartment. Gypsy had seen his house once and had fallen in love with it. It was a tiny, blue-roofed cottage on a high hill with a sweep of bay just below it. Apple trees dotted the half acre beyond.

Well, it was too good to be true, but there it was!

Tom burst in upon her half an hour later, charged with electric energy. He found her languidly packing and took the bags, the bottles and brushes out of her lax hands.

"Go and lie down, woman," he commanded her. "I'm doing all this. We're moving to the country."

She didn't mean to, but all of a sudden tears came. Cooling, blinding, healing tears of gladness and relief.

TWO SCHOOL BANDS TO GIVE CONCERT AT H. S. TONIGHT

Presentation To Be First of Series Given During School Year

Tonight at 8:15 o'clock in the high school auditorium the two bands of the public schools will entertain under the able direction of A. Lee Freeman. This is the first of a series of band concerts given during the school year. It is now planned that there will be two more concerts, one in April and the other in May.

The first part of tonight's program will be given by the Junior band. This is a group of 40 students taken from the 6th, 7th and 8th grades. In order to become a member of the senior organization a student must first serve a year in this band so that he may prove to the director that he is musically fit and advanced enough to merit his place in the senior band.

The Junior band this year is reported to be the finest the school has ever had. They are now playing music that is required for the National Music Contest. This contest is held in order to have long hand rehearsals under good leadership and also a willingness on the part of the students themselves. Their part of the program will consist of the following numbers:

1. "Operatic Mingle" Arr. by E. W. Berry
2. "Determination" Overture
3. "Faust" Selections Arr. by Gounod
4. "Land of Romance" Overture
5. "The Silver Chord" Overture

The remaining part of tonight's concert will be presented by the Senior High School band. This band has been developed during the first semester and now the playing ability of the band as a whole is quite good. The standard set last year of music was a hard one to keep up to but this concert looks like it will be the best ever given by the band. Following is the Senior band program:

1. "Lustful" Overture Keler-Blaas
2. "Raymond" The Queen's Serenade
3. "In a Chinese Temple Garden" Arr. by A. W. Ketelbey
4. "Les Voyageurs" March
5. "The Song of the Lark" H. McQuesten

CORN-HOG PLAN TO BRING MANY DOLLARS HERE

Reduction of Corn, Hogs in County To Total More Than Million

Possible cash benefits from the corn-hog plan in Morgan county are $402,120 for corn and $395,925 for hogs, or more than a million dollars for both according to figures announced at the office of the Morgan county Farm Bureau. The corn acreage of the county is listed at 111,704 acres, and the corn-hog program would reduce it 30 per cent, which amounts to 33,511 acres. Estimating that the corn will average 40 bushels per acre the total of $402,120 is arrived at by getting the corn a price of 30 cents per bushel.

The figures on hogs are arrived at by multiplying 75 per cent of the 1932 crop, 139,740, which amounts to 104,805 acres. Estimating that the hogs will average 40 bushels per acre the total of $395,925 is arrived at by getting the hogs a price of 25 cents per bushel.

Instructions concerning the proposed plan have gone out to farmers in the county. Some of the points stressed are as follows:

Get acreage of all crops 1932-1933 for farm or farms you will operate in 1934.

Select field which you want to rent to government and on this field get crops and yields of each for the past five years.

Make record of the number of liters of pigs you produced in spring and fall of 1932; also spring and fall of 1933. The number of pigs marketed and to be marketed from same should be listed.

Get all the profit you can. Nothing is better than actual sales tickets. Reductions for corn asked for is 20 to 30 per cent of the average of the years 1932-1933. For hogs it is 25 per cent of the average number of liters produced in 1932-1933.

If the number of liters produced and the number of pigs you have, if you already have plans for more liters this spring than your reduction would allow, note that it will not be necessary for you to sacrifice any pigs at this time if you plan to raise two litters a year, as you can concentrate on your second litter if necessary.

The bride was attended in dark blue crepe with accessories to match. Mrs. Rawlings is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mann of East Wolcott street. She is a graduate of Jacksonville High school with the class of '32.

Mr. Rawlings is the son of Mrs. B. F. Rawlings of the Durbin community. He also is a graduate of the Jacksonville High school with the class of '32. Later he attended Gen. City Business College at Quincy.

FARMERS FAVOR BROADENING OF ADJUSTMENT ACT

Recommendation is Made By Edward A. O'Neal At I. A. A. Meet

Denville, Ill., Jan. 25.—(Special)—Broadening of the agricultural adjustment act to include more basic commodities, especially beef cattle and sugar, was recommended tonight by Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, in an address at the 19th annual banquet of the Illinois Agricultural Association.

Chester A. Davis, administrator of the agricultural adjustment administration, was another speaker.

Asserting that the progress already made under the adjustment act is little short of marvelous, O'Neal said the Farm Bureau was seeking additional legislation to strengthen the program for agriculture.

Some of the points of this program, he said are:

1. The appropriation of not less than $200,000,000 to be used for benefit payments to dairy farmers and cattle producers, to supplement benefit payments that are paid out of processing taxes.

2. The further reduction of interest rates on farm mortgages and on production credit, the government to guarantee the principal as well as interest on bonds to provide funds for mortgage relief at low interest rates.

3. The strengthening of the marketing agreement section of the AAA in order to require processors and distributors to co-operate, if they refuse to co-operate voluntarily.

4. A provision to penalize non-cooperative farmers who refuse to follow the acreage reduction program adopted by the majority, but without a licensing provision.

5. The completion of monetary reform by establishing the value of the dollar at a normal level, based on the index value of all commodities, so that it will be a stable medium of exchange.

O'Neal charged that distribution costs were one of the greatest obstacles to national recovery.

"Unless this Frankenstein monster of greed is curbed," he said, "it will ultimately destroy our economic structure."

For thirteen years, he said, farmers have received a grossly unfair share of the consumer's dollar, while consumers paid prices far out of proportion to the prices paid to farmers.

He predicted success for President Roosevelt's monetary policy. Four-fifths of the world's trade is done in currencies that are depreciated five per cent or more, he asserted. O'Neal believed it inadvisable to reduce agriculture entirely to the domestic market and suggested international barriers as the most practical solution to present tariff problems.

Four thousand men and women from all parts of the state jammed hotels to capacity.

CLASS HEARS TALK ON HISTORY AT OPEN MEETING

Dr. H. C. Jaquith is Speaker at Meeting of Class At King Home

The members of the History class and their guests were delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. Harrison King, 1136 W. State street, yesterday afternoon. About sixty were present on this occasion, which was the annual open meeting of the society. The president, Mrs. H. B. Hargrave, presided over the meeting.

Dr. H. C. Jaquith, president of the Illinois college, who addressed the club upon the subject "History in the Making."

President Jaquith, evidencing deep study upon his theme and showing wide experience in an official capacity in the Near East in 1919, the period during the Armenian presentation to his audience this unusual deeply interesting subject. The speaker prefaced his remarks by saying that many authorities feel that history should not be written until fifty years afterwards, however, we are interested in what the world is doing and in order to have an understanding background for current events it is necessary to be able to distinguish the permanent from the transient and the important from the unimportant.

Dr. Jaquith drew graphically from his personal experience in Europe during this period, which showed the audience tremendous problems of that time, which in their decisions were epoch making. During his discourses he described the exchange of population of the Greeks and the Turks, as the work of a commission, under his jurisdiction, as a refugee, as also a permanent event of history. In speaking of the first meeting of the league of nations, President Jaquith said that to be present was most inspiring and an event which was easy to recognize in its vast importance; a group that had never been outstanding in all history.

These personal references in the experience of Dr. Jaquith added materially to this informing and splendid address, which held the closest attention of the audience.

Preceding the address a group of vocal numbers was given by Devlin Brockhouse, pupil of Mrs. Barr Brown. The numbers included "Journey's End," by Russell; "Victor" by Sander; "Boat and Saddle," by Rogers; Miss Lee Anna Clemmons was the accompanist.

Following the program the members and friends enjoyed a cup of tea with the hostesses in the dining room which was lovely with spring flowers.

The boy had been to visit his mother, Mrs. Esther Wesner, who is a nurse at the Illinois School for the Deaf. He was returning to his home at the residence of his aunt, Miss Edna Osborne, 1157 West Lafayette avenue. He was caught in the sudden rainstorm which visited the city Wednesday night and was unable to see the car parked in the path of his bicycle. He was thrown from the wheel by the shock of the collision and may have lain on the pavement for some time. He got up and went to the home of Harry C. Road, 220 Webster ave. Although the boy insisted that he was not badly hurt, Mr. Roach called the Osborne home, and later brought Miss Osborne to the Roach home, where the lad had received medical attention.

He was later taken to the Deaf, and it was determined his injury was more serious than it was first thought. He was then removed to the hospital.

Presentation To Be First of Series Given During School Year

Tonight at 8:15 o'clock in the High school auditorium the two bands of the public schools will entertain under the able direction of A. Lee Freeman. This is the first of a series of band concerts given during the school year. It is now planned that there will be two more concerts, one in April and the other in May.

The first part of tonight's program will be given by the Junior band. This is a group of 40 students taken from the 6th, 7th and 8th grades. In order to become a member of the senior organization, a student must first serve a year in this band so that he may move to the advanced group that he is musically fit and directed enough to merit his place in the Senior band.

The Junior band this year is reported to be the finest the school has ever had. They are now playing music that is required for the National Class C High School bands. This it is felt is due to long hard rehearsals under good leadership and also to the ingenuity on the part of the students themselves. Their part of the program will consist of the following numbers:

- 1. "Operatic Mingle".....Arr. by E. W. Berry
- 2. "Determination" Overture.....Al. Hayes
- 3. "Faust" Selections.....Gounod
- 4. "Land of Romance" Overture.....Frazee
- 5. "The Silver Chord" Overture.....Charles O'Neill

The remaining part of tonight's concert will be presented by the Senior High School band. This band was hit hard due to graduation of last year's players, but good material has been developed during the first semester and now the playing ability of the band as a whole is equal to that of last year's organization. This band plays tonight material as hard as any of the large Class A school bands. Mr. Freeman says that this is as fine material as could be asked for in any kind of a band, and that the students are really playing it good. The standard set last year of music was a hard one to keep up to, but this concert looks like it will be the best ever given by the bands. Following is the Senior band program:

- 1. "Lustspiel" Overture.....Keler-Bela
- 2. "Raymond" (The Queen's Secret).....Ambr. Thomas
- 3. "In a Chinese Temple-Garden".....A. W. Kettelbey
- 4. "Foyageurs".....L. H. McQueston
- 5. "Moonlight Sonata" Adagio sostenuto.....L. van Beethoven
- 6. "Spiritual Rivers" Overture.....George Gault
- 7. "Slavonic Rhapsody" C. Friedman

Tickets may be purchased from all band members, High school principal's office or at the door tonight. A small admission is being charged in order to buy supplies for the band.

CORN-HOG PLAN TO BRING MANY DOLLARS HERE

Reduction of Corn, Hogs in County To Total More Than Million

Possible cash benefits from the corn-hog program in Morgan county are $402,120 for corn and $599,025 for hogs or more than a million dollars for both according to figures announced at the office of the Morgan county Farm Bureau. The corn acreage of the county is listed at 111,700 acres, and the corn-hog program would reduce it 30 per cent, which amounts to 33,510 acres. Estimating that the corn will average 40 bushels per acre the total of $402,120 is arrived at by giving the corn a price of 30 cents per bushel.

The figures on hogs are arrived at by multiplying 75 per cent of the 1932 hog crop, 159,740, which amounts to 119,805, by $5. Farmers joining in the hog-corn program are asked to reduce their hog crop 25 per cent and the corn crop 30 per cent. The reduction in the hog crop is the proposed plan have gone out to farmers in the county. Some of the points stressed are as follows:

- Get acreage of all crops 1932-1933 for farm or farms you will operate in 1934.
- Select field which you want to rent to government and on this field get crops and yields of each for the past five years.
- Make record of the number of litters of pigs you produced in spring and fall of 1932; also spring and fall of 1933. The number of pigs marketed and sold or marketed from same should be listed.
- Get all the proof you can. Nothing is better than actual sales tickets.

Reductions for corn asked for is 20 to 30 per cent of the average of the years 1932-1933. For hogs it is 25 per cent of the average number of litters produced in 1932-1933.

It is the number of litters produced and not the number of sows you have. If you already have plans for more litters this spring than your reduction would allow, note that it will not be necessary for you to sacrifice any sows at this time if you plan on two litters a year, as you can equalize on your second litter if necessary.

FARMERS FAVOR BROADENING OF ADJUSTMENT ACT

Recommendation is Made By Edward A. O'Neal At I. A. A. Meet

Danville, Ill., Jan. 25.—(Special)—Broadening of the agricultural adjustment act to include more basic commodities, especially beef cattle and sugar, was recommended tonight by Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, in an address at the 19th annual banquet of the Illinois Agricultural Association at the Danville Hotel.

Mr. O'Neal, who is administrator of the agricultural adjustment administration, was another speaker.

Asserting that the progress already made under the adjustment act is little short of marvelous, O'Neal said the Farm Bureau was seeking additional legislation to strengthen the program for agriculture.

Some of the points of this program, he said, are:

- 1. The appropriation of not less than $200,000,000 to be used for benefit payments to dairy farmers and cattle producers, to supplement benefit payments that are paid out of processing taxes.
- 2. The further reduction of interest rates on farm mortgages and on production credits to the government to guarantee the principal as well as interest on bonds to provide funds for mortgage relief at low interest rates.
- 3. The strengthening of the marketing agreement section of the AAA in order to require processors and distributors to co-operate, if they refuse to co-operate voluntarily.
- 4. A provision to penalize non-co-operative farmers who refuse to follow the acreage reduction program adopted by the majority, but without a licensing provision.

5. The completion of monetary reform by abolishing the value of the dollar at a normal level, based on the index value of all commodities, so that it will be a stable medium of exchange.

O'Neal charged that distribution costs were one of the greatest obstacles to national recovery.

"Under this Frankenstein monster of greed is curbed," he said, "it will ultimately destroy our economic structure."

For thirteen years, he said, farmers have received a grossly unfair share of the consumers' dollar, while consumers paid prices far out of proportion to the price paid at the farm.

He predicted success for President Roosevelt's monetary policy. Four-fifths of the world's trade is done in currencies that are depreciated five per cent or more, he asserted. O'Neal said he believed it inadvisable to reduce agriculture entirely to the domestic market, and suggested international barter as the most practicable solution to present tariff problems.

Four thousand men and women from all parts of the state jammed hotels to capacity.

The members of the History class and their guests were delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. Harrison King, 1136 W. State street, yesterday afternoon. About sixty were present on this occasion, which was the annual open meeting of the society. The president, Mrs. H. H. Bancroft, presided and introduced Dr. H. C. Jaquith, president of the Illinois college, who addressed the club upon the subject "History in the Making."

President Jaquith, evidencing deep study upon his theme and showing wide experience in an official capacity, in the Near East in 1919, the period during the Armistice, presented to his audience this unusual deeply interesting subject. The speaker prefaced his remarks by saying that many authorities feel that history should not be written until fifty years afterwards, however, we are interested in what the world is doing and in order to have an understanding background for current events it is necessary to be able to distinguish the permanent from the transient, and one must be able to distinguish the important from the unimportant of fleeting events. Dr. Jaquith drew graphically from his personal experience in Europe during this period, which showed the audience tremendous problems of that time, which in their decisions were epoch making. During his discourse he described the burning of Smyrna, with its terrible desolation and suffering. He emphasized the great problem of the care of the refugees as also a permanent event of history. In speaking of the first meeting of the league of nations, President Jaquith said that to be present was most inspiring and an event which was easy to recognize in the present. A group that had never been together before, an occasion most outstanding in all history.

These personal references in the experience of Dr. Jaquith added materially to this informing and splendid address, which held the closest attention of the audience.

Following the address a group of vocal numbers was given by DeVere Brockhouse, pupil of Mrs. Barr Brown. The numbers included "Journey's End," by Russell; "Victor" by Sanderson; "Boot and Saddle" by Rogers. Miss Lee Anna Clemmons was the accompanist.

Following the program the members and friends remained until late afternoon, enjoying a cup of tea with the hostesses in the dining room which was lovely with spring flowers.

CONDITION OF TEDDY WESNER REMAINS GOOD

The condition of Teddy Wesner, 14, who suffered a fracture of his skull Wednesday night, when the bicycle he was riding collided with the front fender of a car parked on Webster avenue, was reported to be satisfactory last night. The youth underwent an operation yesterday morning at Passavant hospital, and surgeons removed several pieces of bone from his forehead.

The boy had been to visit his mother, Mrs. Esther Wesner, who is a nurse at the Illinois School for the Deaf. He was returning to his home at the residence of his aunt, Miss Edna Osborne, 1157 West Lafayette avenue, when he was caught in the sudden rainstorm which visited the city Wednesday night and was unable to see the car parked in the path of his bicycle. He was thrown from the wheel by the shock of the collision and may have lain on the pavement for some time. He got up and went to the home of H. C. Coach, 220 Webster avenue. Although the boy insisted that he was not badly hurt, Mr. Roach called the Osborne home, and later brought Miss Osborne to the Roach home, where the lad had remained. He was later taken to his mother at the School for the Deaf, and it was determined his injury was more serious than was first thought. He was then removed to the hospital.
